Birds and Men
Deterding and Pertinax
Cruel as the Grave
The Prince Flies Home

—By Arthur Brisbane—

ON THE RED BANK, N. J., railroad station yesterday two large flat baskets and two pasteboard boxes with holes to admit air were filled with carrier pigeons. A railroad man opened them, freeing four or five dozen birds.

"I don't know where they come from or where they are going," said he. "They are often sent here to be turned loose. I suppose they go home."

The beautiful birds, descendants of wild rock pigeons still found in steep Swiss canyons, flew up in two groups and for more than 10 minutes circled round and round, regaining their sense of direction. Presently the two flocks, united, flew off together over the roof of the S. S. Thompson General Contractors' Building in a northeasterly direction.

"They always go over that building after they fly around 10 or 15 minutes to make up their minds," said a bystander.

Presently flocks of young humans released from educational cages will be turned loose in the world. It will take them more than 15 minutes to decide on a direction and many will never reach their destination. Some day, when men shall have lived on earth as many million years as birds have lived here, they, too, will be born with a sense of direction and know which way to go.

Looking after the flying birds, Courtland Smith said:

"Lindbergh must have in his brain the knowledge that guides them."

Yesterday two interesting men were in New York where this is written. One, a Frenchman, who signs his writings "Pertinax," has made Europe and this country listen as few writers have done in the last 50 years.

Americans that return from France to tell amazed relatives about the lack of ice water tell them also that the French are a very talkative people.

They would be surprised if they met Pertinax, who listens, thinks, remembers everything, says little.

The other interesting personality in town on his way to Europe was Sir Henri W. A. Deterding, K. B. E.

He is more than a K. B. E. As head of the Shell Oil Co. he has stood the American oil industry more or less on its head. He looks something like Clemenceau, very much like the late Judge Gary.

As an individual in business, fighting the power of the combined oil companies of the United States, he is a bigger figure in the oil industry all over the world than any one other man. Sixty-three years old, he lives on ocean steamers and in sleeping cars.

Asked whence he came he said, "From the Kettleman Hill oil field in California."

That field belongs to Standard Oil of California. A wise man visits his competitor.

The most extraordinary oil field in the world, Deterding calls Kettleman Hill, pumping out oil that is almost pure gasoline. If the supply lasts, as geologists think it will, there is, according to Deterding, no possibility of exaggerating the value of that field.

Oil men, according to Deterding, should think more about getting new products from oil, less about increasing a supply, too abundant, now.

Deterding has a new product, so volatile, evaporating so quickly that if you put your finger in it rapid evaporation would burn as though you had put it in boiling water.

Compressed into two small tanks, that oil product will heat and light an ordinary home for two months.

A woman 50 years old, formerly an actress, murdered her best friend, a woman 20 years younger, then killed herself.

The police say "jealousy." The younger woman, according to their theory, was invited, the older woman not invited to some social function.

That probably does not tell all the story. But if the Angel Gabriel has in his records any pages devoted to savage killing, the word "jealousy" appears in them often.

"Love is strong as death; jealousy is cruel as the grave: the coals thereof are coals of

Boston Man Wins Hudson River Outboard Classic

PICTURE ON PAGE 3.

New York, April 26 (AP)—J. E. Wilkinson, 32-year-old Boston driver, won the annual 133-mile motor boat race from Albany to New York today and set a new record of 3 hours 25 minutes 3 seconds.

The previous mark was set this year by Jacob Dunn-II of Philadelphia at 3:26:40.

Frank James of Toronto, driving an outboard, was the second finishing, and he, too, broke the record, being clocked at 3:29:28.

As he brought his tiny craft to the wharf amid cheers, Wilkinson grinned and related how he was the last of all the contestants to leave the starting line at Albany.

"I was on the river for 30 minutes at the start without getting my motor going," he declared. "I couldn't get any spark."

The winner did not take the lead until the last three miles.

Harry Johnson, a professional from New Haven, Conn., finished third. He, too, broke the record. He was timed at 3:40:50.

The mystery of what became of Jimmy Milliken, who looked like a certain winner when the leaders passed Nyack, was solved when the St. Louis driver was identified as one of the two racers who broke down within sight of the finish.

Wilkinson is sales manager of the Atlantic Radio Marine Co. Frank Wigglesworth of Boston finished 24th.

H. C. STAR WINS RELAYS

Penn Relay Field, Philadelphia, April 26 (AP)—Under almost perfect conditions, and many of 5000 second and college athletes began their attack on records today at the 36th annual Pennsylvania relay carnival.

Bearing a good hammer throwing name, E. F. Flanagan of Holy Cross, won the first special event by tossing the iron ball 158 feet, 2½ inches, six feet short of the carnival record. Paul Vonck of Harvard was second.

The shuttle hurdle relay race, always a spectacular event resulted in a fine victory for Yale over Ohio State, an added starter. The first Eli timber-topper, Bowman gave his team a big lead but the Buckeye Lundbeck cut this down in such an extent that the anchor man, Dick Beckman of Ohio, was an even footing with his rival A. G. Dwyer.

RED SOX TRADE BILL BARRETT

The Red Sox have won Outfielder Bill Barrett of Washington in exchange for Earl Webb another outfielder. The deal was completed in the capital today by President Bob Quinn of the Sox. The players will change uniforms tomorrow.

The Sox obtained Barrett from Chicago early last season for Doug-las Taitt. Barrett played right field in several games in 1929 and appeared in the lineup a few times this spring, but failed to live up to expectations.

When Jack Rothrock, regular rightfielder, broke his leg a week ago today, Quinn started hunting for a left-handed hitting fly-chaser. Washington had one in Webb and wanted a right-handed hitter like Barrett, so the swap was arranged.

Webb playing in Los Angeles last season, hit for .357 and fielded .961. He was drafted by Cincinnati and claimed by the Senators on waivers.

He broke in with the Chicago Cubs two seasons ago, and for several weeks was the sensation of baseball as a result of the number of home runs he made.

DISCOVERED UNDER HEDGE AT HOME OF DOCTOR

Picked Up by Boy at Play and Shows That Only Two Shots Were Fired

The gun from which were fired the bullets that killed Patrolman Franklin B. Dwyer was found today.

While playing on the grounds of his home at 29 Bagwell st., Dorchester, a quarter of a mile from the scene of Dwyer's duel with a burglar in Spaulding's drug store Tuesday morning, Kenneth Staples, seven, found the weapon underneath a hedge that skirts the sidewalk.

The lad told his father, Dr. Edward Staples, who notified police headquarters and Inspectors Timothy Donovan and Max Singer were sent for.

As who knows the death weapon proved to be the 38 caliber, long barrel army revolver owned by Henry Wilson, janitor of the drug store, and left by him beside the cash register in the pharmacy Monday night.

ONLY TWO SHOTS FIRED

In conformity with the original creation in shooting, however, only two cartridges, instead of six, had been fired. From this evidence police believe did not know in which direction Dwyer had been hit twice police drew the conclusion that the slayer was an expert marksman and probably carried a pistol of his own.

The evidence discarded by the gun today is the first available to police, for the scene of the first quarter of a mile August-ward from the fatal shots.

This strengthens the theory that the slayer was the leather jacketed stranger in whom an early morning bakery wagon driver saw a man differ from Dwyer's description by a pair of

PHOTOGRAPHED

By the same token is discounted a theory that the murderer boarded an Andrew car at Upham's Corner about 10 o'clock.

While young Staples, realizing the importance of his find, and the police took every precaution not to handle the murder gun, such a thing may not become its case that the possibility of incriminating fingers print being found was slight.

At headquarters it was dusted and faint marks showed on the gun's surface that experts hope will be of these photographs were taken for preservation. Had the gun been found by the police the chance before prints might have led to arrest and conviction of the slayer and may even yet, but is unlikely.

FEW GOOD CLUES

The police, while expending every effort to bring Dwyer's slayer to justice, admittedly are up against a case of few clues.

Search continues for a Dorchester man, known as a drug seller, who has not been home since Monday night, but there is nothing, except his continued absence, to point suspicion toward him.

Brockton, Taunton and Providence police were requested to search for a leather jacketed, tweed-garbed man who "touched" a car from Brockton Fair Grounds this morning, on the plea that he needed fare to Taunton.

The victim of the touch, suspicious because of the resemblance of the description broadcast of Dwyer's slayer, communicated with police, who combed the district about the fair grounds without finding him.

EARTH TO SHIVER MONDAY AS OLD SOL IS ECLIPSED BY MOON

ASTRONOMER GIVES TIPS TO WATCHERS

Sun to Be Darkened for One Second; Photographers Must Be Quick

Universal Service has had an astronomer of international reputation prepare for its readers a description of the eclipse of the sun on April 28. Here, in plain language, is his version of the phenomenon.

By ROBERT G. AITKEN
Associate Director, Lick Observatory.

Mount Hamilton, Cal., April 26—Americans will first view the total eclipse of the sun Monday morning just north of San Francisco.

At 9:36 a. m. (Pacific Standard Time) a small dent on the southwestern edge of the round disk of the sun will be seen—the beginning of the shadow that will darken on the face of Old Sol.

The moon will pass between the earth and the sun and will gradually nibb more and more of its disk, until, about 11 o'clock, the sun will be totally eclipsed for a little more than a second. The path some 3000 feet wide, extending from a point six miles north of Mount Thanksgiving east the southern edge of Honey Lake, across Nevada and Idaho to Butte, Montana.

NARROW PATH

On both sides of this narrow path there will be quite a broad stretch of country from which 99 per cent of the sun's disk will be eclipsed, at about 11 o'clock. San Francisco and Sacramento on the south and St. Helena and Marysville on the north, lie within this belt.

As the visible sun narrows to a crescent the weird light will make the shadows shudder. It is quite unlike any other light and the familiar landscape will look ghostly look. If you are where the sunlight falls through foliage you will notice crescent shaped images on the ground.

And that shiver which I mentioned will be a little chilly addition in the actual drop in temperature. Watch your thermometer and you will find this statement correct.

If the sky is clear, the darkness will be a difference. It will not be as dark as on a bright moonlight night, but if it is cloudy, electric lights will be needed in offices.

FAST PHOTOGRAPHY

Astronomer photographers will want to photograph the eclipse are advised to use the fastest plates they can secure and to make exposures instantaneous. Even the shortest possible exposure will probably show a fuzzy edge to the crescent sun.

By about 12:30 the eclipse for California will be over. The moon and the sun's disk once more clear.

At Camptonville, Yuba County, the Lick Observatory-Crocker expedition, under the charge of Astronomer J. H. Moore, has two powerful spectographs to analyze the light coming from that part of the atmosphere of the sun lying just above what we ordinarily call the sun's surface.

Whether the instruments are right in the centre of the shadow path, as we hope, or off on its edge, those instruments will give plates that will add definitely to our knowledge.

We also hope to get photographs of the Corona, but I have my doubts. A camera must be well on the shadow path. Since the location on the path is uncertain by some 15,000 feet, we shall have three photographic telescopes, one on the centre of the computed line, one 10,000 feet to the north, and one about as far to the south of it.

We shall also time the eclipse accurately, noting the instant when the disks of the sun and moon first touch, the instant when totality begins, the instant it ends, and, finally, the instant when the sun is again entirely free.

For this purpose we have set up a chronograph and a short wave-length wireless receiving set. The commandant at the Mare Island navy yard has confidently agreed to co-operate by sending out special sets of time signals on a number of different wave lengths.

Other expeditions from Mount Wilson Observatory, from the Allegheny Observatory, from Pomona College (Calif.) Observatory, and from the U. S. Naval Observatory will be located at points along the path from Camptonville to Gerlach, Nev.

Airplanes will also be used. Through the courtesy of the commandant general at the Presidio an army airplane will carry Dr. H. M. Jeffers, of the Lick Observatory, to an altitude of 10,000 feet or more. He will attempt to photograph the moon's shadow as it rushes across the earth's surface.

CALL CURLEY'S PLEA UNSOUND

Mayor Curley's argument that $5,000,000 must be borrowed outside the debt limit for repaving and making of highways because 40000 are reported unemployed in Boston is unsound, according to a statement by the Good Government Association today.

"Does he know what percentage is due to temporary readjustments, and what percentage could undertake national labor in the streets," the association asks. "Is the Mayor sure the contracts under which the streets will be built or repaired provide for the employment of citizens of Boston exclusively? Even if he can answer these questions to the satisfaction of the Legislature, he should have difficulty explaining how his demands will provide more work for the unemployed than the bill reported by the committee on municipal finance. The only difference is in the method of raising the money."

Operatives Benefit by New Mill Plan

Salem, April 26—A labor extension plan, increasing wages, reducing production costs and relieving skilled employes of unskilled work, has been adopted at Pequot Mills here. The action was taken through the co-operation of the United Textile Workers' Union and the management, the agreement believed to be the only one of its kind in the American cotton industry.

Under the new plan the operatives will be running less machines than in some of the other sheeting mills, with about 12 minutes fatigue period every working hour.

RUM BOAT FLEES POLICE GUNS IN HINGHAM

Escapes in a Hail of Bullets When About to Fall Into Trap Set by Officers

Under a barrage of shots from the guns of police and coast guardsmen, a heavily laden rum-running powerboat, planning to make a landing at Weir river, Hingham, escaped in the dark early today.

Alarmed by movements of the officers on shore, the rum runners, when within revolver shot, turned their craft about and headed out to sea.

Acting on a tip that a load was to be landed somewhere between Worlds End, Hingham and the Weir river, the posse waited in the darkness near the mouth of the stream.

The party was headed by Commissioner of Public Safety Henry J. Stevens of Hull, and included police of that town and of Hingham, and members of the coastguard.

The engine of a power boat was eventually heard, drawing nearer, and suddenly in the darkness the watchers discerned a craft about 60 feet long creeping into the mouth of the river under throttled engines.

A movement by one of the watchers gave the alarm, and the rum craft turned and shot swiftly out to sea.

The duty containing the two men also disappeared and is believed to have been taken in tow by the larger craft.

DRY RAIDERS SEIZE GUESTS

New York, April 26 (AP)—Nine male patrons of the Hollywood Restaurant, a popular Broadway night club, today were under charges of possession of liquor, the first night club guests to be so charged in a federal prohibition raid in New York.

A group of men and women agents mingled with the after theater crowd in the restaurant, located in the heart of the Times sq. district, last night and singled out nine guests who they charged had liquor at their tables. Twenty-six employes were arrested.

Adopt New Policy of Prosecuting Patrons

Washington, April 26 (AP)—Federal prohibition enforcement directors have determined to apply to New York city a policy of prosecuting patrons of illicit selling resorts that has been tested out in other parts of the country.

This was the comment of James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner today, when told that Maurice Campbell, his subordinate in New York city, had brought about the arrest of 11 male patrons of a Broadway night club raided on charges of liquor possession.

"We aren't arresting everybody sitting around a table where liquor is present," said Doran. "The instructions were to pick up only the people actually in custody of a bottle."

Love Suit Against Mrs. Kresge Dropped

New York, April 26 (AP)—Michael Rosenberg, Parisian real estate operator, was on his way back to France today after withdrawing his $500,000 breach of promise suit against Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, former wife of Sebastian Kresge, five and ten-cent store magnate.

Rosenberg denied that he had "settled for a magnificent sum."

CAPTAIN'S OWN STORY OF FIRE ON FREIGHTER

Eight Men Trapped Below Decks; Saw Four Vanish From Lifeboat

Stamford, Conn., April 26 (AP)—Hope for safety of 16 members of the crew of the freighter Thames, burned in Long Island Sound off Sound Beach Thursday night, was abandoned today. Ten members were saved, including Capt. Robert Sherman.

The ruins of the steamer on the reef off Todt's Point were too warm this morning to permit a boarding party to search for traces of bodies.

Capt. Sherman's story made it certain that several of the crew with him were drowned. There were 13, including Pilot Hancourt, in his boat. It upset in the rough water and eight besides himself were saved.

Capt. Sherman thought 18 men had a chance to escape in the boats, as these were off watch. The other eight were on duty, all probably below, and may have been caught by the flames which swept the boat from the base of the smokestack in a very few minutes.

Capt. Sherman said the fire broke out above the boilers and issued on deck around the stack. Smoke enveloped the craft in a few minutes and then the dynamo stopped and it was dark. He said that his first effort was to arouse the crew, those off watch being asleep.

Of the men lost Warren LeBarge, mess boy, came from Winchendon, Mass., and John McNamara, an assistant engineer, from Tiverton, R. I.

The U. S. steamboat inspection service will begin an inquiry as soon as Capt. Sherman files his report of loss of his vessel.

Stalin Pulls Gun on Lenin's Widow

London, April 26 (INS)—Reports of a sensational incident involving Josef Stalin, chairman of the central executive committee of the Communist party, and the widow of Nikolai Lenin, leader of the Bolshevist movement in Soviet Russia, were contained in a dispatch from Riga to the London Daily News today.

The incident occurred when Mme. Lenin sought to criticize Stalin's policy of collectivization. The Communist chief, according to reports, drew a revolver and threatened to shoot her.

The Prince of Wales, home from his African hunting, beat the flying record from Marseilles to Windsor Castle. He was accompanied over French territory by a squadron of French war planes, part of the biggest fighting air fleet in the world. That probably made him think.

He flew over the Channel accompanied by British bombing planes, flying 6000 feet above him. His father and mother met him when he landed, with great affection. He probably said to his father:

"We ought to have more fighting planes."

Somebody ought to say that to Uncle Sam.

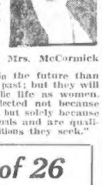
Mrs. McCormick Sees New Political Era

Washington, April 26—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, representative from Illinois, whose smashing victory for the Senatorial nomination on an anti-League Court issue electrified the nation, believes that the United States is on the verge of a new political era.

In a radio address over a nation-wide network on what effect her victory will have upon the women of the country, she said:



Mrs. McCormick

"The women will play a more important part in the future than they have in the past; but they will never enter public life as women. They will be selected not because they are women, but solely because they are individuals and are qualified for the positions they seek."

HUB GOLD STAR PLEA FUTILE

It will be impossible to modify the plan which requires New York as a point of embarkation for the gold star mothers on their pilgrimage to the graves of their sons in France, according to a letter received today by Governor Frank G. Allen from T. L. Davison, assistant secretary of war.

The letter was a response to Governor Allen's plea to Secretary of War Hurley that the New England mothers be allowed to sail from Boston instead of New York.

Mr. Davison expressed regret that the plan could not be changed. He said the schedule had been arranged following advices from the U. S. Lines that it would be impossible to put a ship into the port of Boston to pick up the New England mothers on the journey to France.

According to the schedule, ships will sail from New York on several different dates during May, June and July.

HOPE TO NAB BOOTLEGGER'S SLAYERS AT WALTHAM FUNERAL

POLICE WILL BE ON THE WATCH

Collura May Have Been Killed Elsewhere and Body Carried to Home City

Waltham police today planned to focus attention on the funeral tomorrow of Joe Collura, slain bootlegger, in the hunt for his murderers.

His body was discovered face downwards in a driveway near the First Baptist church, less than 100 feet from his home on Mechanic st. Two guns were found a short distance away from the spot where Collura fell.

Detectives are working on the theory that the slayers will return, to gloat over the finale of the crime, mingle with the mourners at the Collura home, attend the funeral in Sacred Heart Church nearby and accompany the cortege to Calvary Cemetery on the outskirts of the city.

FINGERPRINTS FAINT.

Examination of the pistols found beside the body revealed that fingerprints on bottle and barrels were indistinct and afforded Capt. Van Amburg, state firearms expert, but slight clues to the identity of the slayers.

Lieut. Lawrence McCarthy of the Waltham police, in charge of the murder probe, said the two guns had been traced to a Connecticut factory, thence to a Boston wholesale dealer in firearms and lastly to a West End shop, now out of business, the proprietor of which had sold them five years ago. He destroyed the records of the sale when he gave up his business.

Authorities today were discussing the possibility that Collura was shot elsewhere and his body carried to the place where it was found. They base that theory on the absence of large bloodstains near the body and on the unrelated position of the discarded pistols to their reenacted plan of the crime, worked out on the supposition that the murder was actually perpetrated there.

Extra details of patrolmen are on duty in the city, prepared for an outbreak by friends of Collura, who may determine to avenge his death.

In the Public Garden the mayor planted a Norway maple in memory of Mrs. Harriet Bradbury, recently deceased sister of the late George Robert White, donor of the $5,000,000 municipal fund of that name.

George planted a European linden on the grounds of the Children's Museum in the Jamaicaway.

In accordance with the recommendations made by the Governor, forestry and bird organizations throughout the state observed the day by planting trees and furnishing "bird walks."

East Wakefield, N. H., April 26 (AP)—Police and searchers started today to drag for the bodies of Robert Bradley, 17, and Arthur Rushmore, 16, Madison, N. J., high school boys, who were drowned in Great East lake.

CREW SAVED BY U. S. LINER

Hamburg, April 26 (AP)—The American liner President Harding, inward bound and making for the mouth of the Elbe river, collided in a fog off Helgoland this morning with the British collier Kirkwood, which sank.

The President Harding rescued all of the Kirkwood's crew with the exception of one fireman who was missing.

The President Harding, proceeding to Hamburg, found the fog so dense that she was compelled to anchor off Elbe Lightship No. 1.

No one was injured aboard the American liner, and the United States Lines stated that the damage to her was very slight. The President Harding was able to continue under her own steam toward Hamburg, where she was expected to arrive in the afternoon, the fog still continuing dense.

This is the second occasion within the week that dense fogs have caused shipping accidents off the European and British coasts.

The North German Lloyd liner Bremen, bound for New York on Thursday, was in collision with the tanker British Grenadier about five miles off Dungeness.

The Bremen suffered only a slight dent. The British Grenadier was severely damaged.

'CODDLING' OF CONVICTS HIT

Columbus, April 26 (AP)—Governor Myers Cooper's commission investigating the Ohio penitentiary fire which took a toll of 320 prisoners' lives, was to resume its investigation today with Warden Preston E. Thomas as the only witness.

"The Bolshevik element in the penitentiary has been agitating among the convicts ever since the legislators of New York State made concessions to prisoners after the Auburn uprising," Warden Thomas said in commenting on the prisoners' "passive resistance" campaign against him.

To this element Thomas attributed the troubles which have followed the prison fire.

At Auburn, Thomas said, the prisoners were granted virtually all their demands, including more food and clothing and suspension of the warden. Shortly after this, he added, the agitators got to work in this prison here. Thomas said he immediately conferred with Ohio national guard officers and regular army officers at Fort Hayes, making certain that troops would be ready to go into the prison in an emergency.

Pointing out that there is no welfare league within the walls of the Ohio penitentiary, Warden Thomas said: "I'm against coddling prisoners. Convicts are not going to run this prison, and that's what occurs when welfare leagues within the walls take hold."

ADELE RITCHIE LAID OUT BODY

Laguna Beach, Cal., April 26 (AP)—That Mrs. Doris Murray Palmer, wealthy divorcee, antedated bodily harm some time before she met death here in a double tragedy at the hands of Adele Ritchie, erstwhile musical comedy star and divorced wife of Guy Bates Post, was disclosed today.

Officers said they learned that Mrs. Palmer had telephoned to Mrs. John Morrison, a Chicago visitor in Pasadena, asking Mrs. Morrison to hurry to Laguna Beach and saying she (Mrs. Palmer) was in serious trouble and needed help.

Another dramatic incident of the tragedy was disclosed when an autopsy showed Mrs. Palmer had been shot twice.

Police said evidence revealed that Mrs. Post then washed the blood from the wounds of her companion, tinted the lips and rouged the bloodless face, combed her hair and smoothed her rumpled clothing.

Under the head of her dead friend, police said, Mrs. Post then placed a blue and gold pillow and folded her arms across her breast.

WOMEN POLICE JOB SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

Two Added to the State Force, but Their Duties Are Kept Dark Secret

Two women have been appointed to the Department of Public Safety to perform police functions under Gen. Alfred G. Foote, department head.

Attaches of the department have veiled the duties of the pair in secrecy, while the two women, Mrs. Mary Sutton Ramsdell of Pinckney st., and Miss Lotta Caldwell of Joy st., refuse to disclose the assignments to which they have been detailed.

In the absence of Gen. Foote at a reunion of the 104th Infantry at Gloucester, Paul Norton, secretary to the department, while admitting appointments had been made, declared he knew nothing of the identity of the appointees.

Interviewed at her Pinckney st. home, Mrs. Ramsdell confirmed the news of her appointment but declined to discuss it because "Commissioner Foote expressly told us both that he did not want the appointments given any publicity."

General Foote further admonished us," Mrs. Ramsdell continued, "not to discuss our duties with anyone."

Miss Caldwell was reported out of town.

Reports that the two women would draw salaries of $2400 caused criticism among members of the state police. It was pointed out that the salary of the women was only $300 less than that drawn by lieutenant-detectives in the regular force.

Miss Caldwell and Mrs. Ramsdell will begin a course of training in their new positions on Monday under Sergt. Barrett, "rookie" instructor for the state constabulary. Mrs. Ramsdell, until three weeks ago, was a member of the local staff of the Florence Crittenton League and is well-known for her work among female juveniles in the Blue Ridge mountain settlements and on Indian reservations.

Miss Caldwell has been employed at the Lancaster school for girls and is a graduate of the Massachusetts training school, a private, endowed organization.

ACCUSE BOSTON STOCK 'CHANGE

Indianapolis, April 26—Officials of Boston Stock Exchange have been ordered to appear before Indiana Securities Commission May 14 to show why they should not be removed as an accredited exchange in Indiana because of charges by Secretary of State Fifield that they have permitted loose methods in listing securities.

It is alleged the Boston exchange listed issues of securities which have been sold in Indiana without prior to the listing. The Boston exchange was removed from the accredited list two years ago, but reinstated last year upon assurance of improved procedure, Fifield said.

Secretary George A. Rich of Boston Stock Exchange said he received a communication this morning from the Indiana Securities Commission along the lines mentioned in the above dispatch and conferred with President Jere A. Dorse concerning reply.

"The Boston Stock Exchange is in position to contradict the charges brought against," said Rich.

UTILITIES UP IN WALL STREET

New York, April 26—Strength and activity of the utility stocks and specialties featured an irregular week-end market in which a number of the important industrials, including the motors, lost ground.

Radio and Radio Keith, with General Electric and other stocks of the electric manufacturing-radio-amusement family forged ahead brilliantly at times.

Tonight's the Time to Turn the Ticker

(Blow and Eat!)

Tomorrow we will have a different day.

The hours of light and dark will be askew.

The timepiece jumps ahead an hour, and day.

The arguments that follow won't be few.

Church bells will toll and many will be late.

The cook will get the breakfast sure enough.

But if you eat at seven, 'twill be eight.

Tomorrow when the sun goes up the stuff.

—Elegy of Daylight Saving.

Tonight—or early tomorrow morning—you make the annual sacrifice of one hour in the interest of something or other.

Daylight saving that time of the year when all clocks in Massachusetts spring ahead an hour, is on us again.

And it's AHEAD one hour, so cease the age old argument starts in your household as to whether it's forward or backward the timepiece goes.

The witching hour of 2 a. m. is the official time set for the change but, like in other years, the early-retiring populace will set the clock tonight before retiring.

One important thing for commuters to remember is the fact that railroads conform their time tables as near as possible to the new schedule of time, so that little may be feared in that respect.

The public is getting educated to the little ruses of other years and soon the time situation will adjust itself.

You get that hour back again September 28.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

The Star

Coming home, at midnight, from a Greenwich Village prowl.
Dark streets are like faces when you catch them off their guard.
Crowds were here in day time, and a booming drone.
And lights were flaring, taxi eyeing, like Texas Guinan's jewels.
But getting on toward morning, the mask is laid aside.
Here's an empty face now, scarred and scared and sad.
Windows glaring blankly, like discouraged eyes.
Echoes, like sad memories, taping down the wind.
And garbage clutching at your feet like unsuccessful sin.

* * *

Grim places, cities, when the day is gone.
Grim as tired people when their dreams are done.
Coming up Fifth Avenue I wished I were at home.

* * *

Then, rounding into Madison, I came upon a light.
Leafless trees were drooping, in the stagnant air.
Empty benches near, sagging with despair.
But, bright against the darkness, there shone a lovely star.
Night and day it burns there, for those who died in war,
For Youth that went so gaily, so gallantly, to war—
For Youth that, through all darkness, shines hopeful as a star.
Dreary things, cities, when the day has flown.
Tragic things, people, when their dreams have gone—
Is life just an empty street when the show is done?

* * *

No—there's something burning through the city's night,
And there's something shining in spite of pain and fright.
Youth is like a bright star set in a dark square.
Near our black, blind alleys and benches of despair.
Youth is like a white star that shall never dim,
Shining through the loneliness, our ignorance and sin.
Youth is set as symbol of dreams that cannot die,
Of bravery unvanquished, of courage held high—
Blind may be the alleys,
And the sky so far,
But Youth shines there, a sign for us
THAT BEAUTY STILL GOES ON!

Looping Bows Add Charm to the Mode

For Summer Sketched in Paris

Black Satin Sketched in Paris

From Paris Bureau, Boston Evening American

Paris, April 26—Looping the loop is indulged in by so many frocks this year. The sash and bow are both so popular that designers are continually evolving new ideas to add charm and interest to that type of trimming. Frocks of soft material such as satin, frequently have, as their sole trimming, a wide sash loosely drawn across the skirt and large bow, both looped. The slightest suspicion of embonpoint, would, of course, entirely preclude this type of trimming, but on the right type of figure it looks quite good, and can be a sterling contributor to an interesting silhouette.

* * *

THE DINNER FROCK of black satin is in evidence just now, and is well suited to the stately lines of the current mode. These frocks are generally untrimmed save for some manipulation of the material, in the manner just discussed. Generally the long, even-all-around skirt prevails. Trains and uneven hemlines are certainly not conspicuous by their presence this season. To give you a good idea of the type of frock glimpsed at smart functions after dark, we send you a sketch of one of the newest frocks from the house of Paquin. It is of very heavy black satin, a very much liked material by this establishment this year. Over the simplest straight line foundations is draped a wide loop of the satin from hip to hip in front, ending in an imposing bow at the side back. To balance this striking silhouette, a deep and very full, shirred flounce is placed at the other side of the skirt, and this, together with the skirt edge, is slashed up nearly to the knee at intervals all around—a clever variation of the even-all-around hemline.

* * *

THE SECOND SKETCH is of a lovely model from Lucien DeLong's summer collection. It is an evening dress of primrose yellow crepe satin of which only the crepe side is employed. The intricate piecing on the upper part of the skirt is indicated in the drawing. Little double tabs at the back of the shoulder form an unusual note. An inset piece, coming from the front of the skirt, is drawn up in back and tied in a small bow. A series of overlapping, circular godets lend a graceful line to the long all-around skirt.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

The house sparrow has spread and the starling is spreading over the whole of North America in spite of the competition of the hundreds of species of native birds. The few horses introduced by the Spanish conquerors of South America multiplied and ran wild in huge herds over the pampas. Far from the native Australian conditions, they are no match for the species that have been introduced from other regions.

The mere mention of rabbits will make an Australian farmer cross.

H. G. Wells

And when we come to plants we find that one of the gravest problems of agriculture in various countries, notably New Zealand and Australia, is to prevent introduced species like the prickly pear and blackberry from overrunning the country and ousting not only the native plants but man and his agricultural efforts as well.

Why then are whole groups of related animals tied down to limited regions of the world?

What meaning is there in the restriction of the giraffe family to Africa, the whole of the edentate order of sloths and armadillos and anteaters to southern America, all the monotreme sub-class and almost all the marsupials to Australia?

The answer is to be found in the past in the history of evolving life in relation to the history of the seas and continents. Through fossils we are able to discover not only the past development of existing groups, but also their past distribution in each epoch.

Geology, on the other hand, can tell us a great deal about the extent of seas and land in past periods. It can do this by studying where in each epoch marine deposits were laid down, where there were deserts, or evaporating inland seas which produce beds of salt, where the invading ocean had carved beaches and where ice-sheets had passed or mountain-ranges had been elevated.

Through such evidence, geology is able to say definitely that the present distribution of land and water is in no way permanent.

In the past, the main landmasses of the world have been connected and disjoined in many other ways; and geology can often tell us just when and where the connections and partings were made, and what was the distribution of seas and continents during a particular geological period.

Animals such as land-mammals can and do migrate slowly until they are spread over the whole of a land mass. But there are barriers which they cannot cross. The sea is the most formidable of such barriers. Mountains are another, and broad deserts may be nearly as bad.

Thus the distribution of any group of land-animals will depend upon three factors—first, upon the region where the group happened to originate; second, upon the connections which this region then and later happened to have with other land-masses, and third, upon the fate of the group in the different regions to which it obtained access.

If mammals first evolved after New Zealand had been cut off by a barrier of ocean from all the continents, we should not expect to find any land-mammals in New Zealand.

If lung-fish were once widely distributed all over the world, but later were all but extinguished in the struggle for existence, we should expect to find the few existing lung-fish scattered in isolated regions which happened to favor their survival; it is along such lines that our reasoning must run.

The key to the present distribution lies in past distribution. When palaeontology and geology are able to provide us with evidence, the distribution of animals and plants ceases to be a puzzle and becomes a simple matter of history.

In the same way the distribution of human races, often so puzzling at first sight, clears up directly we know the history of their movements.

The Mongol Turks in Asia Minor, or the fair-haired Lombards in northern Italy, are at first sight anomalies; but with a knowledge of their migrations, the problem disappears.

The only difference with animals and plants is that the periods of time involved are so huge that transformation as well as mere migration of stocks comes into play.

Earl of Derby Off to See Races in U.S.

London, April 26 (AP)—The Earl of Derby, famous British sportsman and the 17th of his name, left here today with his daughter-in-law, Lady Maureen Stanley, for Southampton, whence they sail for the United States.

Lord Derby expects to witness running the Kentucky Derby next month. The race was named for his forebears. At some time during his visit he also probably will meet United States Senator Borah with whom he had an across-the-seas oratorical brush in 1927.

Guardian Stays on the Job When He Finds $90,000 in Can

Lincoln, Neb., April 26 (AP)—Charles Hall's guardian ran across the $90,000 in an old tin can, to add to Halls $250,000 fortune, so the octogenarian will continue to have a guardian—and not independence he had sought.

County Judge Robin R. Reid said yesterday that "there is no doubt that a guardian is needed," after John Ledwith, attorney, testified he found the negotiable securities in an old tin can beneath the farm house when he assumed control of the estate.

'WAIT A WHILE' LED TO PRISON DISASTER

By A. E. GELDHOF
Herald and Examiner-Universal Staff Correspondent

Columbus, O., April 26—"Wait a while!"

That sentiment, "wait a while!" uttered on the witness stand before the commission investigating Ohio's prison horror by Guard Watkinson, caused the death of 320 helpless, suffocated convicts in the State penitentiary Monday night.

"Wait a while!"

That command, issued to Guard Watkinson by Guard Capt. John Hall, when Watkinson pleaded for permission to open the gates of the burning cellhouse and free the convicts, caused a delay of between seven and 10 minutes. Within those minutes, it was testified, the lives of every one of the 320 convicts could have been saved.

"Wait awhile?"

DELAY EVERYWHERE

That attitude seems to permeate the whole fabric of Ohio official dom, insofar as it relates to the caring for its unfortunates behind prison bars. Everywhere the investigators turn they run up against further evidence of procrastination—deadly delay which only a holocaust has brought home to them.

"Wait awhile!"

It seems almost to have become a slogan of State officials.

For more than half a century a tinder-dry, dusty, dirty, oily wooden roof has covered the cell blocks of the Ohio slaughter house, which is called a penitentiary; cell blocks otherwise fireproof, brick, concrete and steel. Why was it not removed before it took fire and poured lolling smoke into the lungs of 320 human beings?

"Wait awhile!"

The same wooden, inflammable roof covers what is left of the penitentiary's cell blocks. There are no longer locks on the cell doors. They have been smashed by the fear-stricken convicts. They cannot smash that fire-trap roof.

So they have been threatening revolt since the fire, practically running the prison themselves, organizing committees to present their grievances, muttering their opposition to Warden Preston Thomas, all through refusal to remain under that dangerous roof. But the only answer they have received so far is—

"Wait awhile!"

NO IMMEDIATE RELIEF

The Legislature will not meet until next January. Governor Myers Cooper has said that he will not call a special session. And when it does meet, under Ohio's law, it cannot appropriate more than $750,000 without a referendum. Everybody knows how long a referendum takes. So it will be late if before the penitentiary is made fireproof, the convicts, already on the verge of revolt, will have to—

"Wait awhile."

Warden Thomas, who has grown gray in the service of the state, has made repeated appeals to the state welfare board and through it to the legislature for the relief of housing facilities for the 4300 prisoners jammed into cells built for 2500. His appeals have covered several years, he says. But the answer has always been the same—

"Wait awhile!"

Both Governor Cooper and Warden Thomas, in the present emergency, are asking criminal judges throughout Ohio, before they commit any more offenders to the State Penitentiary, to—

"Wait a while!"

WARNED OF CROWDING

Still another evidence of this attitude met the warden's demands a few months ago that a committee be appointed to study the needs of the penitentiary. He called attention once more to its criminally overcrowded condition, only to run afoul of the customary—

"Wait awhile!"

But after the fire horror—in fact, four days after—Governor Cooper announced that he had decided to appoint an investigating commission of five members, and that he had selected two of them in the persons of Julius F. Stone of Columbus and E. A. Anderson of Cincinnati. For the other three members, the public will have to—

"Wait awhile!"

And when the attorney-general's commission of inquiry finished taking testimony in its perfunctory investigation of the fire it was announced that a report would be drawn up and laid before the governor to enable him to decide who was to blame.

Wilbur Says Drop Mann Act to Relieve Jails

Hartford, Ct., April 26 (AP)—Present overcrowding of federal penitentiaries is partly due to the effect of two acts, which could well be repealed, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur said here today on arriving for two public engagements.

One is the Dyer act, making it a federal violation to transport a stolen car across state lines, and the other concerns the taking of women from one state to another for immoral purposes.

A large proportion of those convicted of violating these acts are young men, and there are too many young men in the prisons, declared Sec. Wilbur. He held opinion that enforcement of these laws could be adjusted to fall within the jurisdiction of state or local authorities, hence resulting, for one thing, in less federal prison congestion.

There is talk at present of dropping the Dyer Act, he said.

CHARGE STATE INCOME TAX IS UNFAIR

Demanding greater consideration for the family [illegible] of small income, civic, business and industrial leaders are flocking to the support of the drive of the Boston Evening American to bring about the elimination or reduction of the State income tax.

The injustice of a system, which assesses every man equally regardless of his position in life, rankles in the minds of citizens of every class. From all sides comes the cry for more equitable distribution of taxes.

From some comes the plea that action be taken to prevent the State assessing those of higher income at a higher rate to make up the revenue.

Others merely ask that the exemptions for dependents be increased. All are agreed, however, that the low-salaried workingman, trying to raise and educate his children, is unnecessarily burdened by the workings of the Massachusetts State tax.

Some of the comments follow:

CITY COUNCILOR TIMOTHY F. [illegible]ONOVAN of South Boston—"It is about time the workingman, earning a small income, got a fair deal. The money they pay out in taxes to the State hurts them far more than it does the rich man.

"We should have lowered rates of taxation for the men of small income. If not that, there should be, at least, greater exemptions. There should really be exemption on income up to $4000."

MARTIN LOVETT, secretary-treasurer of executive council, Massachusetts State Federation of Labor—"It is absolutely unfair to place such great tax burdens on the working man in Massachusetts. He is already paying as much and often more than he can bear. What the Legislature should do is reduce the amount of taxation on men earning up to $4000 a year. Then they could increase the taxation on those getting more, provided the added revenue was really needed."

CHAPEL BURNED AT GEORGETOWN COLLEGE

Georgetown, Ky., April 26 (AP)—Georgetown college chapel building was destroyed by fire today with loss estimated at approximately $50,000.

Members of the faculty and 200 students escaped after saving a few valuable books and pictures. The college is a Baptist institution.

The two story brick structure, housed several college departments, the chapel, and college library.

The fire was discovered by children playing in the college yard. Prof. Robert T. Hinton, conducting chapel exercises, instructed the students to file out, and asked a few to assist in taking the paintings from the chapel walls on the second floor.

Other students carried a few books from the library, including a Bible said to be worth $15,000.

The loss is partially covered by insurance. The origin of the blaze was not ascertained.

It was thought Mayer accidentally shot himself while cleaning a revolver.

Letters From Readers

Blames Improved Machinery for Unemployment

Editor Boston American:

I note your Mr. Roberts, of the National City Bank, thinks he knows a lot about improved machinery and American labor, but he is all wrong. I have been a mechanic over 30 years and have worked in many line mill and shop throughout New England as at the present time. This is an instance of improved machinery. I, Mr. Roberts go into any mill of 20 years ago and then again today and I can show him many men, half of the people used to work in the wooden mills.

In the old days the weaver ran one broad loom, and now a weaver is obliged to run from 4 to 8. Where are the others going to find work? In other words a carding machine did today's carding work of 20 cards each or about 100 pounds a day. Now each card takes off 4 spools and they speed up to nearly 1000 pounds a day with the help less a number.

One spinner used to run one mule now he runs 6 to 8. Where are all these men left off, going to find work? These women workers cannot go out and swing a pick for they have always worked inside. Improved machinery has caused over-production. Who gets the profits. The manufacturer, of course.

Mr. Roberts says labor has been benefited. Yes, it is all right for him to sit in his bank with a fat job, a home in Lynn where he could try to run a machine 10 hours a day. Today the United States is overrun with unemployable. What labor mostly needs is a war on emigration so that workers may have the right to earn a living.

How is a worker going to get a pension, I'd like to know, a small amount for old age when a mill can show profits of from one to three million a year? It is U. S. for U. S. Steel and copper stocks to rise but how many poor workers dredge like those? They have hard enough time getting sufficient to feed their family without saving for old age. The papers try to tell the people that good times are here but they cannot see and find work in any town in the United States. It cannot be done with only one quarter of the mills running. Every town is helping its poor. There is no work except on a few roads being built and it's to get a job there! That will mean you and Mr. Roberts.

Proposes Voters League to Curb Evils of Nation

Editor Boston American:

I want to thank you and your great paper, the Boston American, for the excellent article of the 24th entitled "Where are Coast Selfishness and cold-blooded interference leading this nation?"

I believe every publication in this country should repeat this article. It is the most awakening article I have yet published. I personally, have made an investigation in many states during the past 10 years and have come to the conclusion that the only way to avoid a revolution in this country is to organize a second system. To get this, a strong body of American voters must be first organized, then members can select worthy representatives to create a real system.

Now I will not go [illegible] Voters League headed by some worthy papers, let all voters interested in the welfare of the country select membership at the rate of $2 per year, this money to be used for the prevention of public employes [illegible] from using their offices to help their political dependents, where they are not fitted for the job, to impeach the [illegible] officials who are not living up to their oaths of office, to [illegible] those who [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and

WILDERNESS YIELDS ITS TREASURE

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

NOW THAT the drama is passing into the final stages of a season crowded with perils, its virtues as well as its sins may claim some attention. Seasonal errors may be dismissed with a gesture; already they have been laid bare and left bleeding on the doorsteps of the temples. Except in a few major cities, the specialists cry out, there is no drama; it is an art not dishevelled, but defunct. However, as every earnest playgoer should know, there is ample testimony to the contrary.

* * *

THE DRAMA on the high roads may have seemed dormant, but it is not totally lacking in vitality. Ethel Barrymore, with waves of good feature, has rediscovered what older producers vaguely remember as the "road"—that cross section of the country where bad plays invariably fell by wayside and where even good attractions have hardly dared venture. If she had done nothing else for the theater, Miss Barrymore's task would be complete.

Nicholas Young

AS IT HAPPENS, Miss Barrymore approaches the Wilbur on Monday with a record of achievements that is not only artistic in its outward phases, but warmly constructive. It is proof that the drama is neither dead nor that the "road" is a dreary waste. She has learned better. When Miss Barrymore arrives with "The Love Duel," she will have reached her 41st consecutive week of travel and toil, a coast to coast trip, and back, without interruption. In these seventies and more months of steady playing, the torch of the drama has been borne aloft in many places far remote from Broadway. And the "road" responded gallantly, as well it should, more than 14,000 miles of it.

* * *

WHEN MISS BARRYMORE'S engagement here is terminated, she will have turned in 43 unbroken weeks; 617 performances. If this is not valiant enough for an art alloyed counted as it is in the wide open spaces, may not the doctors immediately interfere and put the patient out of his misery?

* * *

NOW COMES the season when the lame and the halt of the theater are remembered by benefit performances of really large order. The first of the 1930 ceremonies will be the Natural Vaudeville Association's double-time show at the Metropolitan next Thursday at midnight. Solid and hearty vaudevillian never has been known to turn aside a request for aid in any worthy quarter. Now, these same entertainers are giving their talents on a grand scale for their own unfortunate brethren. We know that this annual N. V. A. benefit appeal will not pass unheeded.

Just a Look From Beauty Across the Footlights Often Brings on Heart Throbs

ETHEL BARRYMORE

MISS BARRYMORE comes to the Wilbur in "The Love Duel." The play is by Lili Hatvany, famous Hungarian baroness and author. This is her first drama to be produced in America.

DOROTHY AND PAULA STONE

THESE TWO WINSOME actresses are the daughters of the celebrated Fred Stone, whom they support in "Ripples" at the Colonial. The whole family is gifted with great talent.

ROSALIND RUSSELL

MISS RUSSELL is one of the splendid E. E. Clive company now appearing in "Dean Old England" at the Copley. The snow made a great hit, and hence constant crowding by playgoers.

VAUDEVILLE STAGES BIG COMEBACK

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

JUST WHEN the funeral bouquet was ready for vaudeville's doorpost, that form of theater entertainment suddenly revived. At the present time, in New England, as everywhere else in America, vaudeville is very much alive. So many troupers "got the gate" during the slump, that now the task of the producers and agencies is to find the talent. And again—to devise better and more pretentious acts. We venture the forecast that before many weeks a dozen theaters in this section of the country will have become combination houses.

* * *

WE KNOW of a number with plans already under way. If one has any doubt of this renewed interest in the "flesh-and-blood," let him or her take a peek into the Scollay Square Olympia, or the Keith-Albee; or listen to the patrons' comment. Or, ask the managers. It's in the air. And the reason? Probably the public has never really lost its love for vaudeville, but was only waiting for these bigger and better acts to come along the Rialto. Perhaps, the talkies have helped. But whatever the reason, the demand is here. So one is not surprised to find the stress being placed upon the stage offerings by the Scollay, for instance. For next week that playhouse will offer a big stage presentation, "A Day at the Circus."

Harry Hines

* * *

THE UNIT is termed a "colonial consolidation of all that is biggest and best." Inasmuch as the word circus has been used, this phrasing may be permitted to pass the censor. The Scollay announces a mammoth bill, with clowns with aerialists, with "Ajax, the only man on earth who can swallow five long swords at one time"—what a digestion he must have! and how we envy him!—that Carlos Comedy Circus, animals of various kinds; Harry Hines in his feature, "Clowning Under the Big Top"; "Sweet Marie who weighs 586 pounds"; the "human skeleton" (weight not given); La Belle Fatima, "the wiggler"; the "half man half woman"; and on and on, through a score of other old-time sawdust features. It ought to be the biggest, best and busiest, truly!

* * *

RKO SENDS stellar bills to the Keith-Albee. The headliner this week is the screen actress, Alma Rubens, who has gained much publicity she did not seek, and all because of what we may term her breakdown. Incidentally, let it be said that RKO has been doing banner work in this matter of putting vaudeville on its feet, head erect and body strong. It sends the Keith-Albee, among other new acts, the Four Cameros, in "Like Father, Like Son"; Peter Relli and Mickey Lopell in comedy antics; Sargent and Cammie in "smart songs and saucy sayings," Thelma Arline and company, and others.

STEP RIGHT UP, FOLKS, FOR BIG SHOW!

It's almost here. The "Greatest Show on Earth" will arrive in Boston Monday afternoon at about 5 p. m. The process of unloading the four trains of the big show will begin immediately following the arrival at the Boston & Maine yards at the North Station. Hundreds of animals and the entire equipment of the huge circus will be transplanted into Boston Garden, Monday night, and preparations for the ten-day engagement of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus here, beginning Wednesday afternoon, will be completed. Naturally enough, much interest will be created by the arrival of the tribe of monster-mouthed Ubangi savages which have been added as a feature attraction of the big show. These strange men and women, said by scientists to be the weirdest human beings in the world, have protruding mouths and lips as large as those of a full grown crocodile.

Hugo Zachinni, the "Human Projectile," was is fired bodily from a monster cannon, is again a feature of the circus. Some of the old favorites of circus fans will be Lillian Leitzel, queen of the air; the Flying Codonas, greatest of aerialists; Con Colleano, genius of the tight wire; Miss Winifred, dazzling aerial performers; Maximo, the clever wire comedian, and many others.

The Wallenda troupe appear this year in a sensational high wire act which they perform the most hazardous feats on a wire 45 feet above the ground.

GOOD PLAY IS THE THING

The influence of the Professional Players of Boston, and its associate organizations in Philadelphia and Chicago, is of far wider scope than might appear from the activities and successes in any one of the three cities. Obviously, it would not be a practical business project for any manager to produce a play for a four weeks' run in one city. But the three cities together afford a total of 12 weeks, and a reasonable assurance of support for that length of time will be at least a foundation upon which a full season's tour might be planned.

Among the plays announced for presentation at the Plymouth next season, under the auspices of the Professional Players, are several that might never have been brought to America were it not for this preliminary assurance of patronage. "Death Takes a Holiday" will open the season here.

ONCE FOUGHT IN SIBERIA

A Russian with a French name is the anomaly presented by Gregory Gaye, who portrays the part of the count in "High Society Blues," now in its second week at the new R. F. Keith's. Gaye's family had lived in Russia since the French Revolution, when Count Gaye fled to St. Petersburg. In Russia, the Gaye family long has been identified with the Imperial Theater, and it was but natural that Gregory should have a leaning toward things theatrical. But during the Kerensky revolution, which upset the czar, young Gaye joined the army of Gen. Kolchak in Siberia. Badly beaten, the army retreated to the Chinese-Turkestan border. It required nearly 18 months for Gaye and his companions to reach Peking. They skirted the borders of Thibet, crossed the Gobi Desert, and had after innumerable adventures arrived at Tientsin, where Gaye joined a Russian repertoire company. In between times he worked at odd jobs, but eventually made his way to Hollywood.

Annual May Festival Plans Announced

Mrs. Butler's Annual May Festival is scheduled for the afternoon and evening of May 10 at the Mechanics Building. The entire program and dances are under the supervision of Mrs. Lilla Viles Wyman, who is coaching and rehearsing the 300 participants. Every phase of the dance from the classical to the latest and newest in "taps" will find a place on the program, with a pantomimic ballet, "The Enchanted Pool," devised by Mrs. Wyman, as one of the most pretentious offerings.

BEST BIB AND TUCKER JUST THE THING IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS

By FRED STONE

Starring in "Ripples" at the Colonial.

When I was a boy most people who went on the stage did so as children. I was a professional performer when I was 10, and in those days the stage as a profession was almost a closed corporation. Father and mother (not my father and mother) were actors or performers, and the children went along with the troupes—circuses, carnivals and stock companies—eventually working their way into the ranks and playing a grand game of hide-and-seek with the sheriffs as the compulsory education laws began to come into force.

The few "outsiders" who drifted in, also began as children employed about the theaters. A case in point is that I had a stage manager for several years who started hiding hats and coats for the quick change song-and-dance teams and who eventually, in that way, held mine in a theater in Chicago. Naturally, children who grew up around the theater did not have a great deal of regular schooling, but they certainly did learn their theater backwards. The theater was their living, and they learned the theater well.

Fred Stone

Now various kinds of laws—all good laws—regulate the stage instruction of children, and the majority of the newcomers are at least 20 years old before they first smell grease paint.

The majority of dramatic schools are splendidly operated, and the instruction is usually adequate and practical.

But I still maintain that the place to learn about the stage is on the stage, and if I was going to make any suggestions regarding the teaching of acting—and by acting I mean singing and dancing, as well as dramatics—it would be that the schools arrange for the students to see acting from behind the footlights.

The best school of the theater is the theater itself.

Good to Curtain's Last Drop

FRANCINE LARRIMORE

MISS LARRIMORE is gloriously fair, and in addition has great ability. So "Let Us Be Gay," at the Hollis, is good medicine for the weary. The sketch is by Artist Charles Schmidt.

FAMOUS PLAY BY O'NEILL AT SALEM

"Strange Interlude," Pulitzer Prize play by Eugene O'Neill, will be at the Empire Theater in Salem beginning Monday night, May 5, for six performances only. This extraordinary drama, the greatest play O'Neill ever wrote, has been widely discussed and generally praised since it opened over two years ago. The notable cast includes Elisabeth Risdon, Ernest Glendinning, George Gaul, Blaine Gordner, Erskine Sanford, Maud Durand, Mary Holsman, James Todd and Charles Walters.

The important thing to remember about "Strange Interlude" for all practical purposes is the starting time. It begins sharply each evening at 5:30 o'clock and no one is seated while any of the nine acts is in progress. At 7:45 comes the dinner intermission which lasts until 9, when the play resumes with the final curtain falling around 11.

Restaurants and hotels in Salem are making special preparations to take care of the large audience during the dinner hour so that one may eat leisurely and return to the theater in plenty of time for the 9 o'clock curtain.

Over 75 large cities in the country have welcomed the play with enthusiasm. In every instance it has been proclaimed the most significant drama ever written. Because of the length of the play, matinees are impossible.

Adequate train services between Boston and Salem will provide opportunity for the local playgoers to see this worthwhile drama.

LUCKY TO GET 'THE BREAKS'

Breaking into the movies is a matter of getting the breaks, states Dorothy Mackaill, First National star whose latest picture, "Strictly Modern," is now at the Modern, Beacon and Egyptian theaters.

"In fact, Lady Luck plays a big part throughout every career, and to see anyone, no matter how good, claim all the credit for rise to fame and fortune," she adds. "Of course you have to have the stuff, too, but without the aid of good luck you're helpless in any game in which the rewards are so high and the competition so great as in screen acting."

Miss Mackaill points out that she was in the Follies and didn't have an idea of a movie career until a director, Marshall Neilan, plumped her into the middle of one. But critics agree that in her past several years' pictures, particularly her latest, "Strictly Modern," is almost 100 per cent Dorothy Mackaill that has made her one of the most popular stars of the present day screen.

'Captain of the Guard' in Second Week at Park

The welcome given the "Captain of the Guard" by patrons of the Park the past week was such that the house played to capacity business. So a second week was arranged for. No less than 5000 persons are said to have been engaged in some of the greater scenes, but the outstanding feature is the work of John Boles, called "the golden voice of the screen," whose singing of two songs, among others, "For You," and "You, You Alone," is stellar.

MISS DRUSE stars in the big vaudeville number, "A Day at the Circus" at the Scollay.

SUBSIDY FOR STAGE, PLEA

Thomas Mitchell believes that the future of the stage consists in the maintenance of a national theater by subsidy.

"Within the next 20 years I am willing to predict that we shall see a national theater established, in which great works of art may be produced with assurance of financial independence," says the noted comedian, who is appearing in the featured role in the successful comedy, "Little Accident," now at the Plymouth.

"That there is a definite love for the theater in this country is shown by the success of endowed and subscription ventures, such as the Theater Guild and Eva La Gallienne's Civic Repertory Theater, as well as by various Little Theater movements. I should like to see such a theater placed right here in Boston, because there is more freedom of thought and originality of creative expression here than elsewhere."

UNITED ARTISTS ANXIOUS TO BORROW HARRY GREEN

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service.)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26—This is the age of specialization. Harry Green by way of example can always be depended upon to get the right gesture and the proper accent in a Jewish characterization. Therefore, when any company buys a play with a Jewish character, Harry is at once invited to play the role.

So far Green's ability in this direction has only given him excellent character parts with no thought of starring. Now comes United Artists with an offer to Paramount, to whom he is under contract, to borrow him.

Louella Parsons

Joseph Schenck's idea to star Harry in "The Shylock," a play by Samuel Spewack and Bella Cohan. Garrett Lloyd is already working on this scenario so we assume that it will only be a short time before the picture goes into production. Many stars have been created from character actors.

* * *

KEEP AN EYE ON Helen Twelvetrees, little cutie brought to Hollywood from the New York stage. Helen is sitting pretty at the Pathe studios, where she is being groomed for bigger and better pictures. "The Money Code" has been purchased for her, and Josephine Lovett, well known scenario writer, has adapted it. Up to now Gloria Swanson, who was queen bee of the Pathe studios, had everything her own way. What with Constance Bennett and Ann Harding being loaned out to other studios, Gloria, who makes pictures for United Artists at the Pathe studios, has no interference whatsoever. They tell me that little Twelvetrees is now in line for getting plenty of attention.

* * *

HOLLYWOOD MAY NOT feel like building a public bonfire to celebrate the coming of Charles Butterworth, but New York will be interested. Butterworth, New York stage comic, was the hit of the show in "Sweet Adeline," and not even Helen Morgan could compare with him in popularity. He has been brought to Hollywood by Warner Brothers to play the comedy lead in "The Life of the Party," with Winnie Lightner and Irene Del Roy. These New York stage stars continue to arrive in large numbers. Dudley Digges and Leslie Howard are due to play in "Outward Bound," and each day some other New York actor arrives.

* * *

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random by observer: Sally Eilers and a new escort dancing at the Blossom room of the Roosevelt Hotel. Dorothy Janis shopping for clothes to last her six months while she is in Borneo. Marion Davies visiting Magnin's to get some sport clothes for summer weather. Wally and Nosh Beery discussing family matters in Henry's at supper. Raquel Torres and Molly O'Day looking very summery in thin white frock. Wynn Gibson and Mae Clarke playing golf. Fern Andra returning from location. That's all today, see you Monday.

SYMPHONY IN TRIBUTE TO CHADWICK

By MOSES SMITH

The Symphony Nominale on program for the second pair of Boston Symphony concerts next to the last of the season, Jordan Hall, tonight and tomorrow afternoon, will be devoted to the music of the late George Whitefield Chadwick, the Symphony Nominale enthroned in the semi-annual memorials of the classical formula. It is the first public appearance of Mr. Monteux's new conductorship. Chadwick's symphony was given only twice in Mr. Muck's regime, and the orchestra, so it is reported by Grace Whitford Chadwick, the composer's widow, will be present to hear the work. Also on the program is Debussy's "Iberia," which is a well-known number in the modern repertoire, and Ravel's "Daphnis et Chloe," Suite No. 2, a masterly development.

Third and fourth symphonies present to hear the work. Also on the program is Debussy's "Iberia," which is a well-known number in the modern repertoire, and Ravel's "Daphnis et Chloe," Suite No. 2, a masterly development.

TONE JUST DID NOT COME

John McCormack, seen and heard in his first talking picture, "Song o' My Heart," now playing at the Majestic, was singing opera in a small town in Italy. His age was 22. One of his arias called for a very high note which he was afraid he could not reach with good quality. In addition he greatly feared the volume engaged by the prima donna.

When the moment of the aria for the high note arrived, Mr. McCormack stepped to the front of the stage, opened his mouth—and did not make a sound. The orchestra carried on the melody and the audience, straining to hear the voice equal to quality to the rest of the song, sent into prolonged applause.

The following night McCormack really sang the note a feeling thoroughly satisfied with his own efforts, but the applause was much less than the previous night. The management and the audience on the first recital implied a sweeter note than really produced.

Martin Johnson Film Holds Over at Repertory

"Across the World With Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson" is to be continued another week at The Repertory. It is the most recent production of Talking Picture Epics, under whose banner films, sponsored by the American Museum of Natural History are distributed, and the most recent film made by the intrepid Johnsons.

This is by no means a picture for grown-ups only, but contains entertainment for the children. What is shown this remarkable sound film of "Killing Big Game," which is a terrific combat between the mongoose and the deadly cobra.

SPRING SHOW AT GAYETY

Directed by Jean Lee, a favorite burlesque entertainer, and Hap Greene, Laddie Johnny HIS KID Revue, featuring Selma La Rochelle and Ray King, "Broadway Brevities" will make its debut Monday at the Gayety, when will present its big Spring Capacity Show. Ed Daley is the manager. The Show will be the greatest collection of entertainers ever assembled on the stage of the Gayety. Lolita, Spanish dancer, a special attraction will make her Boston debut. Still another feature is the "Brevities Quartet," which combines with and mingle in a mélange of bar-ies and comedy.

Selma La Rochelle is a Boston girl who has been heard over the radio via Dunstable and is a protégé following in vaudeville.

The shows which will back up the ensemble of stars are originally selected and drilled for the special presentation. Holubar's production has found will offer some hot numbers.

Charlotte Cushman Show Is Splendid

The Charlotte Cushman Club fund received a big boost through the proceeds from the benefit show given at the Copley Theater yesterday afternoon. The popularity of the cause was attested to by the splendid audience, which was also very appreciative. It was a bang up good show, and all the participants were heartily applauded.

The club maintains its home at 1 Marlborough st., and each year a benefit performance is held to aid the work.

Final Monday Concert

The sixth and last concert of the Monday Evening series by the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be given in Symphony Hall next Monday at 8:15. Dr. Serge Koussevitsky will then present Stravinsky's ballet, "Apollon Musagète," for string orchestra; Wagner's prelude and Liebestod from "Tristan and Isolde"; and the Second Symphony of Brahms in D-major.

MAMMY CAN SURE COOK

Al Jolson has been singing about mammy's cooking for lo these many years, but while his Warner Brothers picture by that name was being filmed he got his fill of it. The homecoming of Al in "Mammy," the present attraction at the Uptown and Washington St. Olympia is one of the high spots of the story. Al's mammy, played by Louise Dresser, does what most mammies do on such occasions, feeds her vis-iting minstrel son with the home cooking he has been bragging about all over the country.

The scene took place just at the noon hour, too, so that Jolson was hungry enough to make a very realistic attack upon the viands.

He ate ravenously, as the script directed, and enjoyed it. Then the blow fell. Director Curtis shook his head and ordered the scene taken again.

Jolson plunged into the dinner with apparently equal ardor. A second time Curtis was dissatisfied. And again! Jolson ate that dinner four times that afternoon and couldn't sing for two days. But it's a great scene.

'Dracula' Will Return to Hollis Next Month

"Dracula," the famous mystery thriller-melodrama made from Bram Stoker's famous novel of the were-wolf, and acknowledged premiere vampire drama, will come to the Hollis for a limited engagement Monday, May 12. The same company which appeared in "Dracula" through its previous Boston engagement will be seen at the Hollis.

James Bradbury has been cast for a part in "A Very Practical Joke," being directed by Berthold Viertel for Fox.

Special Organ Program at the Met Tomorrow

So great has been the demand for Jesse Crawford to play additional numbers in his program at the Metropolitan that this popular organist has consented to give a special Sunday concert tomorrow from 3 to 3:30 p. m. The program follows: Overture of Tchaikovsky; Victor Herbert's "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life"; Excerpts from the Overture fo "Martha," interpolating Irving Berlin's "Russian Lullaby"; Serenade by Schubert; medley: Pomp and Circumstance, In a Monastery Garden, The Stein Song.

STOCK GROUP NEXT STEP AT HOWARD

The big show of the year at the Old Howard comes on Monday when the management offers its own stock company burlesque made up of 12 principals and a chorus of 24 girls. This will be something new. The opening show is "Frenzied Frolics." Mike Sacks and Fred Binder are among the stars. Other principals in include Jerri McCauley, Opal Oakley, Adeline Parks, Charlie Wesson, Harry Cornell, Ruby Fortenka, Harry Conmars, Lucille Carroll, Eddie Cook, Pearl Adams and Vera Walton. On next Thursday night the winner of the $1000 bonus offered by the management to the prettiest and best Mutual show to play the Howard this season will be announced. The producer will be here in person and receive the $1000 on the stage.

Opal Oakley

The vaudeville will offer Hickey Levan and company in "More Nonsense"; Le Grohs, in "Taking Things Easy," and Van Cello & Mary in "Barrels of Fun." The picture, "The Girl in the Show," and other features will be viewed. The midnight show comes Friday.

O'CONNOR, FAMOUS MARKETMAN, IS DEAD

Eaton Gives Anne Happy Xmas

Bright-haired, vital, alive, young Anne Murdock had been three years at the Eaton Advertising Agency when her opportunity came—the opportunity to become Eaton's personal secretary. To work with a man of Laurence Eaton's breadth and power was something to dream of, for Anne had ambitions beyond a suburban home with Ted O'Hara, who was on her own rung of the ladder. The only beauty Anne Murdock saw in her own home was that of her sister, Kathleen, who had lately deserted that home for a career in the chorus. But Eaton overhears a conversation between his secretary and young O'Hara, which leaves him wondering whether he may not have to surrender his efficient assistant to Cupid. Anne senses this and declares that she has no dreams whatever of matrimony.

CHAPTER XIII

Anne went back to her work. It had been office gossip. A foolish mistake—a canard. He liked her work; he wasn't going to let her out. Suddenly Christmas was really Christmas and not just another holiday.

At luncheon time she put on her things and sailed forth to snatch a sandwich and a glass of milk, and to do the chief's shopping. She accomplished this accurately and swiftly, and was amused to admit to herself that it gave her a definite kick to sail into the shops, place her orders, demand special service and instruct the salesman to "charge it, please."

But she didn't forget the source of her worry and misgiving, and she reminded herself that she must speak to Ted. He came to her home for Christmas dinner, but she had no opportunity to speak to him alone. But several evenings later, when they were at the theater, that opportunity arrived.

"Ted, you'll have to stop coming to my office except for business—to-heaven business reasons."

"Now why that edict, Anne?" he demanded.

MODERN GIRL

"People are talking. I won't have talk. I hate it. And besides, you interrupt my work."

"Anne, you're darned hard on a fellow!"

"No I'm not—and if I am," she said inconsistently, "I can't help it. I won't have people gossiping about us, Ted. Now don't start a discussion. The curtain's going up."

Said Eaton to Jameson, at the club on the occasion of a holiday dinner and raffle:

"You were all wrong about Miss Murdock."

"Whom? And why especially?" I'm always wrong."

"My secretary. I had a talk with her recently and she told me she wouldn't marry the last man on earth."

"Well who would?" inquired Jameson reasonably. "Or rather, who could. The competition would be something fierce."

"Oh, be sensible, you incorrigible ass! I mean, the girl's modern. Her job means more to her than love in a walk-up."

"Are there any?" Jameson mused.

"Any what, for heaven's sake?"

"Modern girls," said Jameson.

Eaton caught his friend's arm and suggested:

"Come on and have a drink, and let's find some one for bridge."

He was more light-hearted than his subsequent moderate consumption of Scotch warranted. He needn't worry about losing the best secretary a man ever had. He believed it. She had a quality of sincerity which impressed him enormously.

As the winter progressed, Eaton intrusted Anne with more and more of his private affairs, giving her power of attorney for use when he was away on his frequent trips.

Late that spring Anne was with Eaton in the conference room at an informal meeting with important clients, the Hatton Woolen Mills people. Half a dozen men sat around the long table.

The Hatton concern had recently purchased a rival woolen company, and a new advertising campaign had been discussed and tentatively agreed upon.

Anne, notebook in hand, listened to Lawrence Eaton, who was speaking quietly to Hatton, the president, and Mayne the general manager.

BEGS FOR EMPLOYES

"May I make a suggestion?" he said.

"Of course," Hatton responded with his habitual refrigerated geniality. "Always glad to listen to any suggestions from you, Eaton."

"It's this then: In taking over another concern, I know it is the custom to replace a number of their men with men of your own. There is, I suppose, much to be said for this. You, for instance, have your own policies, your routine, your particular way of going about things. And it is doubtless more difficult to convert a new company to your ways than to put your own men in and carry on without a break. But I'd like to make a plea for the men in the

LINKED WITH SUIT AGAINST DR. CONRAD

Liberal Civic League Charges Slander in $25,000 Action on Eve of Anti-Dry Rally

While the Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad of Park Street Church today was preparing an answer, through attorneys, to a charge of slandering Congressman F. H. La Guardia of New York, the Liberal Civic League was making ready to accommodate a record crowd tomorrow night at Symphony hall, where LaGuardia will speak on "The Breakdown of Prohibition Enforcement."

A $25,000 slander suit filed in Suffolk Superior Court by the league charges Dr. Conrad characterized La Guardia as "a Socialist and a Communist, backed by Tammany Hall and without much standing."

"Any statement I have to make on the slander suit," Dr. Conrad declared today at his church study, "will be made through my attorneys."

Dr. Conrad had already denied he conducted a "whispering campaign" against LaGuardia to discredit his appearance here tomorrow night and said the statement attributed to him had been put in his mouth.

Conrad W. Crocker, speaking for the League, asserted Dr. Conrad was at the bottom of the "whispering campaign," aimed not only to wreck the Symphony Hall meeting but also to destroy the Liberal Civic League by endeavoring to pin a "red" label on it.

Dr. Conrad said that Crocker had requested him to announce the LaGuardia meeting from the Park st. pulpit and that it was "unmitigated gall."

Meantime Crocker issued a statement saying:

"It was to be expected that Dr. Conrad would deny the slander. Any statement that he made to our investigator yesterday morning relative to Congressman LaGuardia," Crocker said, "But his denial does not in any way affect the facts as we have them.

"His animus toward Congressman LaGuardia and the Liberal Civic League, Inc., was shown in his letter to Chairman William H. Mitchell when he likened LaGuardia's coming address as on a party with an address on 'social degeneracy.'"

Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad

Congressman F. H. La Guardia

Accused of being the "master mind" in a whispering campaign against Congressman F. H. La Guardia, the Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad has been sued for $25,000, alleging malicious slander. The suit was brought by the Liberal Civic League. (Staff and International photo.)

SLOT MACHINE GAME PROBED BY WARNER

One Agent Confesses That He Paid Hub Police to Protect "Racket"

The "slot machine racket" is under investigation by Atty-Gen. Joseph E. Warner as he prepares for grand jury proceedings to follow his report of findings in the Garrett inquiry, it was learned today.

One agent for the forbidden "quarter machines" has confessed to state police and Asst. Atty-Gen. George R. Lourie that he paid police to protect the racket.

Two men connected with the scheme have been summoned to the State House and questioned by Lourie and State Detectives John Stokes and Joseph Ferrari. A "forthwith" summons for a third is out and state police are seeking him.

TWO COMPANIES OPERATED

The son of a man prominent in Massachusetts politics is said to have conducted the local agency in Columbus ave., not far from police headquarters.

With this agency, investigation has revealed, Frankie Marlow, slain New York and Boston gambler and fight manager, was identified for several months.

A man formerly connected with a Boston reform organization who has conferred with Atty-Gen. Warner since the Garrett hearings ended, has given information valuable to the present inquiry, and has involved not only certain policemen but a member of the reform society.

The man being sought conducted his business from Belmont, but is reputed to have become incensed on one occasion he was prosecuted and to have waved cancelled checks bearing the signatures of the reform organization agent who prosecuted him.

FILES REPORT WEDNESDAY

It has been known for several days that the Attorney General is laying the foundation of the case he will present to a grand jury, probably in Suffolk County through Dist. Atty. William J. Foley, was continuing his investigation even while preparing his report. Until today, however, the particular phase under inquiry was not revealed.

Atty. Gen. Warner will file his report on the Garrett case with the Legislature on Wednesday. It is expected to flay pensioned raider Officer H. Garrett Conner, Herbert A. Wilson, Capt. George W. Patterson and others, but it will contain no recommendations for legislation. On the basis of the facts reported, the Legislature may make its own proposals for changes in law.

Warner is bound by the duty of his office, however, to present evidence of crime to a jury recently indictments, and he will probably do this without making mention of such proceedings in his report.

Magazine Salesman Arrested in Brighton

Joseph W. Gross, 21, unmarried, of New York, was arrested by Brighton police today charged with larceny. Gross was arrested after he had sold several magazine subscriptions to students of the Harvard business school.

J. J. Calkins of the United States Chamber of Commerce told Brighton police that the magazine the subscriptions were for sells for $20 a year and that Gross was selling it for $2. Gross told inspectors at headquarters that he was one of a crew organized to tour New England and that their headquarters was at the Hotel Warren, Worcester. Worcester police will today interview other members of the selling forces.

One Injured in Engine Crash

NOTED FOLK OF CITY WERE HIS PATRONS FOR 60 YEARS

Rose From Errand Boy in '69 to Owner of Sumner's Market on Bromfield St.

John O'Conner, president and treasurer of Sumner's Market, corner of Bromfield and Province sts., died suddenly today at his home on Egmont st., Brookline. He was 78 years old.

For more than 60 years he had been associated with the market, starting as an errand boy in 1869 and becoming half owner in the business in 1889. He had been its sole owner since 1891, when Charles Henry Sumner, the founder, died.

The market was one of the most famous stores in New England and for the past half century has been patronized by those prominent in the professional, business and social life of the city.

LAST OF HIS TYPE

One of the last of the rapidly-vanishing types of Boston businessmen, Mr. O'Conner had developed to a fine art the charm of personal contact as both buyer and seller and achieved the acme of success in conducting a small-unit store in the face of modern business methods.

In the days before the installation of telephones, the market saw a long procession of men making an early morning call to leave their daily orders, while actors and actresses who frequented the Parker House and Hoyt's Park's invariably trips to the store for personal purchases.

Even when they went abroad, Bostonians were accustomed to leave orders for shipments of delicacies, in which the market took pride.

BORN IN NORTH END

Mr. O'Conner was born on Cross st. in the North End and received his education in the Mayhew Grammar School on Hawkins st.

At 16 years he left the streets at North Market and Commercial sts. during the Civil War.

Funeral services will be held on Tuesday morning at St. Aidan's Church, Brookline.

He is survived by Mrs. O'Conner and six daughters, Hertha, wife of John C. Riley, Boston realtor.

Held as Bandit

Believed to be the gun girl who took part in several recent holdups, Miss Ida Avellis, 21, of Huntington ave., was arraigned in municipal court.

Blaze in Cohasset Lobster Shop Probed

The lobster shop and dining room of Manuel Salvadore, Cohasset, which was partially destroyed by fire three weeks ago was entirely consumed by an incendiary blaze early today.

A general alarm was sounded for the fire, which destroyed a place famous along the South Shore for its shore dinners. The State fire marshal was notified and Inspector Edward Murtagh was assigned to investigate.

FIRE ENGINE IN CRASH, 1 HURT

Fire Engine 23, responding to an alarm, crashed into an express truck at Northampton st. and Shawmut ave., South End, today, with serious injury to one fireman.

Lieut. Joseph Donahue, 46, of 123 Pleasant st., Dorchester, was thrown to the street from the front seat of the engine, suffering a brain concussion and several bruises to the scalp. His name is on the danger list at City Hospital.

Although both the engine and truck were badly damaged, Arthur L. McMurray, of 102 Davis ave., Brookline, driver of the express vehicle, was not hurt. The truck is owned by the Interstate Express Co., of Hackensack, North End.

The fire department refused to make public the names of the engine driver and other firemen on the apparatus, some of whom were hurt. Engine 23 is housed in Northampton st. The alarm to which it was responding was for a small fire in an Upham st. house.

'JEWEL' GIRL IS UNIDENTIFIED

Ida L. Avellis, 21, of Huntington ave., Back Bay, believed to be the gun girl who took part in several recent jewelry robberies, was held in $5000 in municipal court today for a hearing on May 7.

The girl pleaded guilty to the larceny of $3500 worth of diamonds from Saul Kanter, diamond importer, of 387 Washington st., on February 22.

Miss Rosella Levey, an employe, testified that a young woman resembling the defendant entered Kanter's place and asked to look at settings. While Miss Levey was in the back of the store the girl took the diamonds from a desk and fled. Miss Levey was unable to positively identify the defendant.

SAVINGS GAIN IN STATE

Deposits in the savings departments of trust companies in Massachusetts have begun to show a recovery from the slump which followed the stock market decline last fall.

Reports, which took into consideration only those trust companies whose deposits amounted to $22,608,775 March 6, 27, as contrasted with $22,767,843 Dec. 28, and $23,152,481 March 27, 1929.

In the trust departments there was a noticeable increase in trust deposits, which jumped to $52,225,225 March 27, 1929, to $53,653,... and one daughter, Hertha, wife of John C. Riley, Boston realtor.

Diet Hints

Would you like to carry a package weighing 20 pounds around with you day and night? Carrying around extra weight is just as hard work as carrying a load of corresponding material.

The heart is the important organ that bears the brunt of all excessive activities. The danger in the heart's "playing out" is greater when you run overweight than when you are underweight.

The tendency toward high blood pressure and other constitutional diseases like diabetes is also increased. Shortness of breath is one of the discomforts of obesity.

Reduce your weight gradually and sensibly. Avoid the dangers of overweight. Eat plenty of vegetables, moderate helpings of meat and fish, and limited amounts of bread and potatoes.

Steamship Clerks Plan Insurance

Officers Hope to Have Policy Proposal Adopted Before July 1

Planned as a help to veteran workers in their old age, the 240 members of the Boston Steamship Clerks' Union are considering adopting a form of group insurance.

The policy will cost about 12 cents a week per member, and will cover $500 death benefit or increased disability allowance. The weekly share of each clerk probably will be added to the cost of membership dues, $3 a month, to be known as the Steamship Clerks' Association.

Steamship clerks are regarded as the key men of the waterfront, as their work consists of the most responsible operations which set into motion all the sailings.

Officers of the union are: James McGeniry, of Hay State Shipping Co., president; Daniel H. Mahoney, of the American Mail Line, vice president; Joseph E. Cushing, secretary-treasurer and Daniel Reilly, agent.

Is Expert Hunter

Back on his barber hobby series the cub reporter today says:

"When Capt. David R. Cunningham (Lord of seeing the sea, he goes ashore with his little popguns. For a quarter century he has been a crack shot with either rifle or pistol, and is now thinking of taking to bow and arrows."

Granite Imports Double

As another evidence of the development of Finland, we present figures on granite imported during the first nine months of 1929. The total imports in 1925 was 3288 and in 1929, this had more than doubled to 6,600 tons. Most of the granite was from Finland.

Greetings, Capt. Gage

Newport Gas Plant Has $10,000 Blaze

Newport, R. I., April 26—Fire in the oil separator building of the Newport Gas Light Co. point just before midnight last night caused damage estimated at about $10,000, officials said.

Firemen fought the blaze for almost an hour before it was under control.

Longshoreman's Gazette

CARL MORRISON, Editor

Vol. 1 No. 15

"What's happened to the American?"

A news-sound girl in the Board of Trade building was complaining. She said she had been forced to order three separate supplies of the newspaper she is one day. She couldn't understand what caused the ripping of sales.

Modesty forbids our expressing any opinion but we do recall that on the day in question, our column had a special item about that wonderful new baby in Hugo Bosley's family. After bragging about his child for weeks, he suddenly stopped herb-baiting his friends who became worried.

We haven't an opinion that the Morton & Lilly Company office had been walking the floor with his howling infant. We personally know something of that being a proud parent, so we asked our artist to draw a sympathetic sketch.

Perhaps the secret of Ralph's popularity being deserved, can be found in the latest issue of the Marine Guide, the weekly but not weakly shipping paper.

Says the Marine Guide:

"The Boston Evening American has launched a daily shipping column which is attracting attention by its novelty. The editor is Carl F. Morrison, formerly executive secretary to Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine. The column is entitled 'Longshoreman's Gazette' and discusses port and Boston news from different angles."

Another Superstition

You'll probably say, "Oh, rats," when you read this one, but this is one of the best known of all salty traditions. If rats are seen leaving a ship, they must be killed before traveling more or else the ship will be doomed. Rats actually have been known to migrate in large numbers from ships about to be lost in storms and large buildings. Old time sailors would desert their ships if they saw rats dashing for shore.

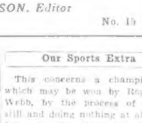
Are You Over 50?

That feat of 42-year-old Clarence Chamberlin in flying the Atlantic "as usual," has revived the old discussion as to when a man is headed for the scrap heap. Some people don't have a policy of not hiring those over 45 or 50. Now, the secretary of labor tells a time when the United States government thought men of 45 were the best for a job. This was in 1917-18 when each men as John O'Donnell of Dorchester was asked by the War Department to accept commissions in the quartermaster corps to direct civilian work at French ports. Young, inexperienced students and others were given the unyielding until trained longshoremen were sent to the rooms "Old John O'Donnell at the age of 37 years, constituted most of the young hustlers on the waterfront.

Our Sports Extra

This concerns a championship which may be won by Rogers & Webb, by the process of sitting still and doing nothing at all. This team in the steamship bowling league is two points behind the Dollar line, which next Thursday plays against Patterson & Wylde.

Should the money men drop two points, the Webb Rogers outfit will have the job of winning the league championship simply by watching the Dollar boys go down to defeat.



The Luckenbach team nearly achieved fame. With four men bowling around 300 each, they nearly broke all records of the league. Having a dummy as fifth man reduced their excellent marks. The play of the five men was: Burns, 324; Long, 332; Culton, 329, and North, 293.

Campaign Is on

Jimmy Ahern has accepted a post of campaign manager for Tom Yarrow, the "Will Rogers of the Waterfront," who is being boomed as the longshoremen's candidate for Congress. When asked about the planks in his platform, Tom replied:

"All I have now is a shingle or two."

On Daily Schedule

Beginning next May 1, the Eastern Steamship lines from Boston will be daily instead of three times a week. This does not include Sunday. The boats will leave at 5 o'clock, Standard Time.

Bucksport is reported to be an important shipping point at present, due to log building going now on. Scores of contracting representatives are making frequent visits via the Penobscot river.

In Some Quarters

Following the purchase of the George E. Marsters, Inc, by the Ware Shipping Co., several changes have been made. The new combined organization will retain the Marsters name, which is widely known in tourist circles. The marine division of the new company will be located in room 218 in the Board of Trade Building with Capt. Ernest D. Sproul continuing as manager. Bookings for South America, West Indies and Pacific ports will be made for the Munson lines.

Here and There Among the Churches

Easter is over and religious forces settle down once more to the normal activities. Many clergymen are taking a few days off to run into the country for a bit of rest and others are slackening the pace necessary during holy week.

FIRST BAPTIST

The Rev. Samuel M. Lindsay of the Baptist church, Brookline, will preach tomorrow morning on "Living With the Living Christ." In the evening he will answer the question, "Why we glory in the cross?"

FIRST CHURCH

Historic First Church on Marlboro and Berkeley sts. is preparing for a week of special services and exercises as part of its program for the Tercentenary year. The date of May 11 has been set for the first of the memorial affairs. The Rev. W. L. Kenn will speak on historical address, and the Rev Charles E. Park will talk on "Three Puritan Women."

On Thursday evening of that same week four or five churches which were established in 1630 will be invited to take part with the First Church in a patriotic and historic service.

DUDLEY ST. CHURCH.

The most prosperous week in the history of the Dudley St. Baptist Church has just been passed. The minister, the Rev. Arthur T. Brooks, however, is not content to rest on his oars and think over his present blessings, but he is as vigorously at work in his post-Easter program as he was with his pre-Easter services. Tomorrow evening he will baptize more candidates and will perform the ceremony in the ancient form of immersion.

TREMONT METHODIST.

Questions concerning the continuance of work at the Tremont Methodist Church are still unsolved. For the present there will be services. Tomorrow the Rev. Lloyd A. Dillon, who preached on Easter Sunday will again be in the pulpit.

LINCOLN PARK BAPTIST.

The Rev. John Shade Franklin of the Baptist Church, West Newton, will preach tomorrow on "The Meaning of Pentecost." The anniversary of this event will come June 8.

DORCHESTER TEMPLE

A purse of gold was presented to the Rev. Archibald A. Forshee at a meeting of the Temple Union prayer meeting held this week. The gift came from the group of men who constitute the men's class in the church and was made known as a token of appreciation for the splendid work their teacher has done. A gift was also presented to the class pianist, Mr. Ford.

The Rev. Otis W. Cove, D.D., pastor of this church, will preach tomorrow morning on "The Meaning of Pentecost."

A portion of the cantata, 'Olivet to Calvary,' will be sung tomorrow evening at 7:30.

PARK ST. CHURCH.

Dr. Conrad of the Park Street Church is gaining a reputation for striking sermon titles to which he then vigorously addresses and person. Tomorrow morning he will preach on "Believe It or Not—Faith's Revolutionary Explanation." In the evening he will preach on "What Will Be Our Body's Appearance and Condition in Heaven."

UNITARIAN WEEK

Delegates from Unitarian churches all over the country are preparing to come to Boston for the Unitarian anniversary week—May 18 to 23. Attendance is expected to exceed other years on account of the fact that Boston is celebrating her Tercentenary year in which Unitarian churches are especially interested.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

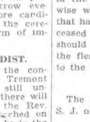
"Probation after Death" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 27, 1930.

The Golden Text is: "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord" (Hebrews 12:14).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Forasmuch then as Christ hath suffered for us in the flesh, arm yourselves likewise with the same mind: For he that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin; that he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh to the lusts of men, but to the will of God." (1 Peter 4:12).

FEDERATION

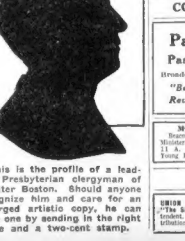
The Rev. Jones I. Corrigan SL. S. J. of Boston College and Dean



Philemon F. Sturges of St. Paul's Cathedral will be the speakers at a "Quiet Hour" service to be held in the Cathedral next Thursday, 5:45 p. m. Fr. Corrigan's topic will be "The Social Worker and Our Youth." To this meeting all social workers of Greater Boston are cordially invited. The service is under the direction of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches.

Dean Sturges

Whose Pastor?



This is the profile of a leading Presbyterian clergyman of Greater Boston. Should anyone recognize him and care for an enlarged artistic copy, he can have one by sending in the right name and a two-cent stamp.

Coming Soon

The Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher of Oakland, Cal., will begin his ministry at Tremont Temple next Sunday, May 4. For 16 years he was at the Baptist Temple, Los Angeles. Dr. Brougher has two sons, both of whom are ministers. Tomorrow at the Temple the Rev. W. A. Grove will preach in the morning on "The Eyes of the Soul," and in the evening on "Is Young America Godless, Wet, and Going to the Dogs?"

COTTON WAGE IS INADEQUATE, SAYS CHURCH

The current number of the Federal Council Bulletin or information Service devotes its pages to a discussion of wages in the cotton industry, especially in the South where it is estimated a man working steadily six days in the week for an entire year may earn $364. While there are some cases where better pay is secured, the above figure is considered the average. The article hints that cotton manufactures may have been making fortunes at the expense of the workers. Professor Louis Bader of Columbia is quoted extensively as one who spent 15 years in the industry. He says:

"To ask a family of five to live on a yearly income to $850, when it can be earned, seems today a preposterous undertaking."

Continuing he asks the question "Why should it be the case that higher wages cannot be paid?"

The professor does not say anything about competition between the North and South, but he does say emphatically that wages in the southern cotton mills should be brought up more nearly to what they are in the North.

Loyalty League Rally at Tremont

A huge prohibition rally is being staged at Tremont Temple Wednesday evening, May 7, at 7:30. A combination of the committee of a thousand men, and a similar committee of women will fill the body of the house. Three speakers who will present the dry arguments are Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, Dr. Robert Watson and Dr. Richard Cabot.

The purpose of the meeting is two-fold. In the first place this is preliminary to the huge mass meeting to be held in the Boston Garden on May 20 at which 20,000 people are expected. Also this Tremont Temple meeting will mean the massing of the dry forces for increased activity.

FIRST BAPTIST.

The Rev. Harold Major was glad to number in his congregation last Sunday about 1600 worshipers. He baptized 10, among whom were two Chinese, and also his own 12-year-old daughter. Dr. Major is especially well pleased at the way his people are contributing toward the church, and also to aid various missionary funds.

Smithson Co. who have given years of their lives to building up the business.

"It is no light thing for them to be thrown out of work. All the kind, regrettable words in the world, coupled with bonuses or two months' salary, won't help them. They've lost much more than a job, Mr. Hatton. They've lost—if they are good men, and I presume they are or their company would never have reached competitive proportions—they've lost the very mainspring of their existence.

ACTIVE FACTORS

"Wouldn't it be possible, Mr. Hatton, to utilize such men as are still active factors in the Smithson Co., taking the trouble to train them to your methods, interesting them in the large scope of the new concern? It seems to me that it would be very worth while. They can't have held their jobs so long without having their own ideas. And those ideas may be—probably are—helpful and constructive."

There's something in what you say," Hatton admitted, with his maybe-you-think-so manner. He turned to Mayne. "Day, the old superintendent, has a good record," he remarked casually.

Mayne nodded. "He's responsible for most of the improvements during the last 10 years, I believe."

"It certainly won't harm your prestige," suggested Eaton, "to be known as one of the few companies which, upon buying out a competitor refuse to follow the ancient and honorable—although the latter term is open to argument — custom of firing all the lesser executives of the purchased concern."

"I'll think it over," said Hatton, which was, with him, tantamount to an agreement.

Back in his office, Eaton asked Anne:

"Do you think I put it over?"

"I certainly do."

"I hope so," he went on. "I've sat in on dozens of these conferences, always with the gloomy mental picture of men given the gate after years of service. It's been a dream of mine to persuade some open-minded concern to do the generous thing, even at the expense of a more difficult task of reorganization.

TOUGH NUT

"Hatton's a tough nut to crack. When we first got that account, I was up against it. He rarely committed himself. Their advertising methods were old-fashioned in the extreme; their copy wore crinolines. It took everything I had to persuade him to a tremendous increase in appropriation and the modern slant.

"He was under the impression that he had hired a couple of bright boys to write pretty copy and draw pretty pictures for him. It took a long time to prove to him that we did more than that. He wanted his work done in six months. I said, 'Nix.' That interested him. He wasn't used to being crossed. I made him give us a year—which wasn't time enough, really—and we sent a man into the field to make a complete survey; we sent others to the dealers; we worked like nailers.

"That was my first big job on succeeding my uncle. And Hatton has grudgingly admitted to me that their returns from their half-million yearly expenditure have been enormous."

Linda Eaton knew what an office wife really is in Faith Baldwin's next instalment. Jameson suspects Eaton is not wholly office-like to Anne while they are at work together.

The features of the final day of competition in the Penn relay games at Philadelphia today will, in all probability, be the 100 yard dash and the one-mile run. In the dash, George Simpson of Ohio State, who ran the distance in 9 2-5 secs. with starting blocks, will try to repeat this performance without the help of artificial assistance and thus establish an officially recognized world record. Ray Conger, Illinois A. C. star, will face Leo Lermond, holder of the American mile title, in a race in which Lermond hopes to better his mark.

WARREN BROS. IS EXPANDING OVERSEAS

By FRANK H. SELOON

Warren Bros. Co. Boston paver, to head which Col. Charles R. Gow left the local posthastership after a term of seven years, is expanding rapidly on foreign fields, it was disclosed in Boston yesterday by Victor M. Cutter, president of the company, in announcing the formation of a new subsidiary, the Warren Bros. Co. of Canada, Ltd., which will engage in paving operations in Canada.

Charles R. Gow

Mr. Cutter, who was the first assistant to Gow many months ago that Gow had land corporations go after paving business in a big way, said the company has been quietly succeeding, along with others.

Improvement in the position of the paving industry, which this column previously reviewed by the Union Trust Co. Cleveland Trust Co. Bulletin, declares the petroleum industry has reached a turning point, and the rising tide of business is materialized it is well on the way to being translated into an actual condition, especially in the crude production phase.

The bank reports last the efforts toward stabilization of the industry have already been rewarded to tangible extent by the appreciation of the improvement in the substantial increase in position of virtually all the leading oil companies.

According to government figures, gasoline consumption for January and February set new high records, shown by the increase of 15 and 16 per cent respectively over the same months in 1929. The report of gasoline recovered from total crude production showed that for the first months of this year there was an increase of 21 per cent over the same period of 1929.

The bank reports that in terms of the trend of prices, the refining process it is now possible to convert fuel oil into gasoline by the cracking process. According to the bank, has raised the percentage of gasoline recovered from total crude production about 40 per cent, from 26.1 per cent in 1918-34 to per cent in 1929, and that in the years the production is expected to be between 35 and 40 per cent. It estimates that the gasoline supply available in 1933 from refining and revalue in 1923 for the by-product cracking process will amount to be 2,912,000 barrels.

The dominant position of the United States in the world petroleum growing industry and the necessity of continued expansion and will not be solved if the domestic industry is to be conducted, according to Edward H. Gamble, economist of the New York Cotton Exchange.

The world has greatly reduced its consumption of the American staple and has greatly increased the use of foreign cotton. In the last three years, he said, but this change is due to favorable conditions which can hardly be considered temporary.

"During the past year, the cotton trade of the world has given more thought than ever before to the subject of foreign growth of cotton and their competition with the American staple," said Mr. Garside.

"This question has assumed an added importance because of statistical evidence showing that, while world consumption of American cotton has declined sharply in the past three years, world consumption of foreign cotton has increased greatly in the same period.

"Although it should not be assumed that these changes have been due entirely to the direct substitution of foreign cotton for American, it has become clear that a very large part of the decline in the consumption of American cotton and of the increase in the consumption of foreign cotton can be explained only on that basis."

NEWS OF New York Curb BOSTON Trends of the Day MARKETS

CURB MARKET UTILITIES IN MOST FAVOR

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

New York, April 26 (AP)—The curb market was subjected to considerable week-end liquidation today, although consolidation for the rise was again pressed forward in a few of the utilities and the oils. Price trends continued irregular and confusing, as they have most of the week. Trading was inclined to slacken.

American Superpower was again a favorite in the utility group, rising to new high ground for the year above 29. American Gas & Electric shot up about 5 points.

Such second leaders as Niagara Hudson, Electric Bond & Share and United Light A, however, failed to make progress, and Commonwealth Edison lost a few points in a small turnover.

Gulf was a leader in the oil group, selling up about 3 points to within striking distance of its high for 1930. Ohio Oil was firm, but Standard of Indiana eased. Cities Service and Humble were quiet. In the mines, Newmont and Nevada soared a point or so.

The industrials were dull and irregular. Simms Manufacturing, which has returned to activity in the past few days, lost a few points in profit taking, then rallied. Fox Theaters A sagged in realizing.

DOLLAR TRADE VOLUME IS UP

Washington, April 26—The volume of business for the week ended April 19, as indicated by check payments, was nearly 7 per cent higher than for the previous week.

Operations in check trading during the latest reported week were the same as two weeks ago and a little higher than one week ago but below last year. Production of bituminous coal was less than last week or the same period in 1929. Petroleum production was slightly greater than a week ago and showed a decrease of about 2 per cent from a year ago.

The value of building contracts rose more than 11 per cent over last week, but was less than for the corresponding period last year.

The general trend indicated by wholesale prices was fractionally less than last week and 6 per cent below a year ago. There was very little change in the composite iron and steel products index for 1929, but the rates remained unchanged from a week ago but still about 50 per cent lower than a year ago.

DUN'S REVIEW IS HOPEFUL

New York, April 26—Dun's review today says:

"In the fluctuating trends, its slowness of revival, business continues without change of broad significance. Gains which appear remain both scattered and moderate, with retail trade in the East and some other sections hampered anew by unseasonable weather, and declines in commodity prices still predominate.

"The recessions in wholesale quotations are chiefly in foodstuffs, yet unstable conditions persist in some raw materials used in manufacturing, and markets for finished products are naturally affected."

The Kendall Company

The Kendall Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share and a participating dividend of 25 cents per share on participating preferred stock, payable June 1.

Aircraft Companies Negotiating for Merger of Group

New York, April 26 (AP)—Negotiations are underway whereby the Stearman Eagle Aircraft Co. of Kansas City is expected to become the nucleus of a merger of a group of aircraft companies. Among the companies mentioned figuring in the pending deal are the Consolidated Machine Foundry Co., Pottstown, Pa.; Szekeley Aircraft & Engine Co., Holland, Mich.; Lincoln Aircraft Co., Lincoln, Neb., and the Alliance Aircraft Co., Alliance, O.

BOSTON STOCK LIST IS MIXED FOR WEEK-END

Prices were mixed in trading today on the Boston Stock Exchange, but gains and losses were fairly well distributed.

General interest was one of the most active issues, closing on 5,500 shares, up 1¼ points. It has entered a new fusion, and also in Chattanooga, Ill., will the cost of which will be borne by the Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce.

Quincy Mining held within a narrow range, but Boston Edison interest stepped up to a new top, adding 1¼, at 214. Hygrade Lamp added 2 to 31.

Of the six most active issues three closed higher, one lower and two unchanged.

Mohawk sagged 1½, at 38½. Venezuelan-Mexican was down a point, at 14. Boston Elevated suffered lowered a point, at 92. Credit Alliance A was off a point, at 14¾. Stone & Webster dropped 1¾, at 107¾. American Telephone, at 178¾, was up 1¾ from its low.

President Jere A. Dickson of the Boston Stock Exchange says:

"We believe that the listing of securities and the handling of the same on the exchange has been carefully and conservatively conducted for the protection of the always ready to meet any properly authorized inquiry into the same."

Consolidated Gas-Merger Prospects

THERE is no denying that Consolidated Gas upon analysis appeals to the investment and speculative elements almost entirely upon its merger possibilities. Its yield is too small to attract pure investment demand, while the growth of income while steady is insufficient to warrant speculative buying on aggressive scale. But the consolidation prospects, emphasized by the continued absorption of Consolidated Gas stock by those sponsoring the Eastern utility merger, account for the stocks strength. United Corporation's management finds it convenient at times to utilize these extensive holdings in Consolidated, purchases which were sold at favorable prices. Consolidated would undoubtedly fit it with larger-scale utility combines both from the profit and merger standpoint. In the former with Niagara-Hudson as electricity hook-up and from the west as natural gas development. The biggest holders of gas stock obviously are intent upon holding on until these developments eventuate.

Public service of New Jersey is in position similar to Consolidated Gas; it is a natural link to public utility merger.

Worthington Pump Desired by Others?

PERSISTENT advance in Worthington Pump which has enjoyed a sensational advance since this collapse in first directed attention to the important accumulation below par is explainable in part by buying for the account of other industrial enterprises. It is said that one of the biggest companies in a field which is allied to Worthington now owns a substantial block of Worthington. The merger prospects for the company this are decidedly favorable, although it is not certain whether the dominant interests in Worthington would be interested at prevailing rates.

MONEY MARKET DEVELOPMENTS IMPORTANT

By W. S. COUSINS

New York, April 26—Money market developments are likely to play an important part in the further trading of American business and trade in the spring and summer months.

It goes without saying that at the present time there is a shortage of money and credit for all legitimate purposes (including speculation) at the most favorable rates that have prevailed in more than a year. In fact, there is an extraordinary demand for money in some quarters, as is evidenced by the steady decrease in bankers' acceptance and commercial paper rates and the keen competition for high grade securities in the investment markets.

These are important factors in connection with next year's outlook for the tightening up of the money situation between now and the end of the summer months may be briefly summarized as follows: first, an increase in stock speculation, necessitating the calling of loans in this country of the foreign loans, involving a possible German reparations payment; second, a large export trade in American industry and trade, necessitating the use of a large additional volume of money and credit.

Should the banks and business leaders in general would welcome indications of all three of these developments, but especially the first and second. Speculative buying would stand a considerable expansion without running into serious trouble, though it is admitted that a return to those "call money" trading and "pool" days would certainly be deeply distasteful.

There seems little likelihood of a big flotation of German bonds in this country at this time, though it is understood that bankers from time to time in an effort to determine the attitude of our investors on the one hand and other European issues of government and corporation bonds.

The trouble in the matter is that investors on this side of the water have little appetite for unsecured obligations, and the German Government of German corporations under Financing of Germany is an entirely different matter, and this will doubtless be the case until the financing volume by the heads of American industry.

If indications this year is to make a favorable comparison with 1929, it is time that more positive evidence appeared of activity in the steel, building, construction, automobile and other important lines. The steel industry could be speeded up 25 per cent above the present operating rate and the automobile manufacturing could make many more cars than at present if they could find buyers for them; the railroads could carry a much larger volume of freight than is now offered to them in domestic trade; many men now out of work would gladly tie up to a good job if they could find it.

To remove this uncertainty in business and trade the best brains of the nation are now actively employed, devoting themselves without recompense to the task of restoring prosperity to as wide a stretch of territory as possible. That this have been unsuccessful has been amply demonstrated; but it is equally clear that here is still some distance to travel.

RISING TREND IS REVIEWED

By H. S. BROUGHMAN
(Irving Fisher Service)

In most of its parts during the current week the stock market has sagged. But the dip has come after the business recession has touched bottom, and while the values supporting the securities of the nation are slowly receding from the impairment incurred by a disturbed level of commodity prices.

Motors closed yesterday at the low since Feb. 10. Coppers found a new low on April 25. Anaconda, Kennecott and Calumet and Hecla and were heavy losers this week.

But rising prices were registered all week in the group of radio and theater stocks which with Shubert, Radio Corporation, Radio Keith, Columbia Graphaphone and Lowe's gained 5.7 per cent this week, and closed the week at their 1930 high in the Fisher index. Oils also rose.

Foods moved to a new high, and household products gained 2.7 per cent this week.

Summing up, the indexes show a four weeks' downward trend in preferred stocks and rails, a three weeks' decline in steels and coppers, and a two weeks' fall in the all-industrials index, in utilities, building supplies, motors and auto accessories. The machinery, electrical, farm machinery, chemical, and stores groups felt the downward movement only this week.

Legge Knew He Was Making a Sacrifice, But--

Treasury "Relieved" More Than Farmers; How's This for Profit?

—By B. C. Forbes—

New York, April 26—Alexander Legge was a great success as head of the International Harvester Company. He had been brought up in the business, had mastered it thoroughly and won the presidency by merit. He received, when he accepted the chairmanship of the Federal Farm Board, that involved a big sacrifice; but just how much of a sacrifice he could correctly estimate forseen. His is about the most thankless job in America today.

He wasn't steeped in politics nor steeped in speculation. Now he has to wrestle with both.

The government has become the chief speculator in grain, but it is a case of "heads you win, tails I lose." When individuals speculate they figure they have some hope of winning; when the farm board speculates it can hope to do nothing but lose. The more it tries to sustain wheat prices the more demoralized the hordes had become. Overbearing surpluses always depress.

The only "relief" manifest this far has consisted of relieving the farmers of millions of money, millions of dollars. Instead of the grain and cotton people exhibiting any gratitude for the government generously, they have done nothing but criticize. Not one of the promises of prices entirely satisfactory to farmers; instead, prices have declined and declined. In place of bread, they have received a stone.

The fault doesn't lie with Mr. Legge. Even Moses couldn't have fulfilled the impossible promises made by the politicians. No man has ever succeeded in pegging a world commodity at an artificial price even with very powerful people magnates, strongly banded together. Inevitably they have failed and found the task impossible. Pegging artificial prices surely is a novel way to demonstrate the virtues of farm products and to encourage cultivation.

The law of economics cannot be repealed even by lawmakers as exclusive of themselves as some of those enactments ignorant of economics.

Paul M. Warburg, brought up on European banking methods, is out with several proposed amendments to the administration of our federal reserve system, particularly the composition and the method of nominating the reserve board. One suggestion would mean the giving up by senators of certain powers over Swell chance! Another Warburg suggestion is that the secretary of the treasury shall no longer act as a member. The truth is that Secretary Mellon is about the only member of the Federal Reserve Board known throughout the nation and enjoying extraordinary public confidence. Politics, no matter how meritorious, have no fit politics. Mr. Warburg's don't.

This column some time ago predicted a revival in shipping. Eugene G. Grace, head of Bethlehem Steel, recently interested in shipbuilding, told stockholders this week:

"The shipbuilding business is better at the present than at any other time since the war. There is a nice volume of shipping business pending."

* * *

While talking with Walter E. Sachs, third-generation member of the investment banking house of Goldman, Sachs & Company, I suggested that it would be very interesting to find figure out just how a cumulative would have fared who bought one hundred shares $10,000 worth of each new issue of common stock offered by the firm. Mr. Sachs kindly agreed to but a statistician was put to work. The results is extremely interesting.

An investment of $10,000 in each of the fifty-three issues sponsored would have totaled $530,000. The market value of these same securities (including stock dividends) on the day the compilation was made was $1,507,113.

The profit, therefore, was $977,-213, or 184 per cent more than the original cost.

Meanwhile, cash dividends have amounted to $318,869.

The average annual yield works out at 12% per cent, while the average annual increase of market value has been 23 per cent, a total of 35½ per cent a year. Since Lowe's compilation Goldman, Sachs has been a further substantial increase in quotations.

Is it altogether astonishing that investment trusts, wealthy individuals and many shrewd investors believe in putting funds into carefully selected common stocks? It's a great country.

LOUIS WEIR, favorite Boston organist, has built an organ console which is probably unique in this country. It is believed to be the smallest practical console in regular use in the world. Its tiny keys are similar to those used on piano-accordions. The ankle pedals get console can be attached in a half an hour to the largest of organs, and will play the entire organ range experimentally. Weir is now heard every Saturday and Monday evening from 6:15 to 7 over WLEX from the Elks' ballroom.

Louis Weir

STILL ANOTHER Hollywood celebrity sends his voice across the land in the Del Monte program at 8:30 via the Red Network. This is the esteemed and handsome John Boles who made his first hit in the stage and screen productions of the "Desert Song." The program will be devoted to a version of this singer's latest picture, "Captain of the Guard." The story and much of the music hinge upon the French patriotic revolutionary air, "La Marseillaise." Arrangements and original music have been made especially for the picture by Charles Wakefield Cadman. Boles has the role of Rouget de Lisle, writer of the stirring French anthem.

WALTER DAMROSCH gives of his best with overflowing hands during the General Electric Hour on the Red chain at 9. The Damrosch members in his symphonic program are the Overture to the "Roman Carnival" by Berlioz, Scherzo movement from Beethoven's "Heroic Symphony," Waltz from "Serenade for Strings," by Tschaikowsky, and the mighty Prelude and Finale from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde." Incidentally Damrosch pronounces that word "Pree-lude."

IF YOU WISH to drink in little more Tristan and Isolde atmosphere, tune WJZ at 9, just before the Damrosch program on the sister network. The Marco Twins' tenor duo presents a musical narrative which brings in the Isolde incident and likewise the extravagant feast of Lady Guinevere and Launcelot. The affairs of these two erring couples are interwoven in some variance from accepted legend.

TOSCHA SEIDEL undertakes the first of a brief series of Sunday afternoon broadcasts for Columbia at 5 o'clock tomorrow. The great concert violinist's playing will be heard locally through WNAC, associated with him in tomorrow's program is Adele Vasa, soprano.

THE SUNDAY Atwater Kent Hour brings to the microphone two soloists. They are Jonn Powell, a brilliant young American concert pianist, and William Simmons, baritone of the forces of the R. R. C. Powell will do a group of Chopin, the Scherzo movement from MacDowell's Concerto in D minor with orchestra, and a group of modern solos including one of his own compositions. Simmons will be heard in varied songs, starting with the Robert Burns poem, "Flow Gently Sweet Afton" and ending with "The Ranger's Song" from "Rio Rita."

ANOTHER Junior Record radio program will be furnished by high school students of Greater Boston tonight at 6:30 the "Red" group will take possession of the WLOE studio for its bi-weekly broadcast of fun and music.

NONSENSE ruled, as usual, in last night's Grenn and White program. It's the sort of nonsense that brings chuckles and which offends no one. The lively patter succeeds in keeping the name of the sponsor in the listener's ears in no unobtrusive way. All because nothing is taken too seriously, apparently.

"Let's all drink a toast to Quaker State," cries Norman Brokenshire at one stage of the game.

"Oh. You don't drink toast. You eat it," protests Charlie.

"Yes, but this is a special kind of toast which you drink."

"Oh, I know. Milk toast!"

The toast finally was forthcoming.

"Here's oil in your eye."

HOW MANY persons can read a book and listen to a Tony Story broadcast at the same time. It isn't easy when the radio story rolls off the lips of the actors as smoothly as did last night's. It was able to force its plot into one listener's consciousness against the competition of Joseph Gollomb's thrilling "Spies," a fine new version of the familiar landmiser. In this case, a progressive young Western rancher with a growing family. It took flood and disaster to show him the errors of his ways.

ALL THAT strawberry rock candy which Andy bought on credit to sprinkle in his bath, all those flaming ties, all those noisy shirts, all the socks, garters and suspenders and what-nots which Amos shredded in the sausage machine sun into covering, are going back to the store. Amos has taken a firm hold of Andy's private finances. He is going to pay the landlord Andy's room rent regularly, give him 52 a week on account of back rent, deducting these items from his partner's earnings. He has humiliated the proud Andy by writing the raincoat company that Andy is out of funds, and may, some day, if he has the cash, buy one raincoat, but not two.

No wonder poor Andy moans:

"Ain't dis a mess. I'se disgusted."

Ever since Amos got that thrifty streak in his system he has been drifting spiritually further and further away from his buddy.

AIRPORT SALES BREAK ALL RECORDS

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The long winter sales campaign waged by the commercial operators at Boston Airport is bearing fruit, judging by the number of actual sales consummated during the present month.

Sixteen planes have been delivered to new owners since the first of the month, constituting a sales record for this part of the country.

These planes are not all new ones, but the majority of the sales were for ships that have been flown only on test hops. Several of Curtiss-Wright's sales were used OX-5 motored jobs, the prices of which were slashed in order to move them and make space for new stock.

SIXTEEN SALES

Curtiss-Wright disposed of five used planes to John Hart of Lawrence, J. R. Whitney, Providence; Ernest Ringenwald, Manchester, N. H.; and the Varney Air Transport, Inc., Brockton. New planes were delivered to John L. Hobson, of Boston, and G. L. Wilson, of Pawtucket.

Skyways turned over new Stearman cabins to John Lewis, Providence; W. Bartlett Bacon, Brookline; John Lasell, Worcester, and a used ship to C. Weston Adams, Framingham.

EIGHT LARGE SALES

East Coast came through with two Moths, one to Barnes Flying Service, Westfield, and the other to Bob Tetreault, New London, Ct., and Lawrence. A Travel Air went to Barnes Flying Service, along with one of the Moths. Kenneth Ackerman, of Lowell, bought a used Travel Air biplane, and a Travel Air, OXX-6 powered, went to Simeon Collins, of Falmouth, through Roy Keeley, of Taunton.

GIRL UNAFRAID -:- By Gladys Johnson

CHAPTER 43

A few weeks later Ken entered Cecile's boudoir, his face pale with anger, lips nervously compressed.

Though it was the middle of the afternoon, he found Cecile in the hands of her maid.

Marriage and motherhood had made little difference to Cecile's babied heart, beauty was still her chief concern. It was rather a startling apparition which greeted her husband's eyes today. Swathed in a sheet, Cecile lay on the day bed and her face was an astonishing dull green.

At Ken's voice she opened her eyes and made frantic movements with her hands which the gaunt Swedish maid interpreted grudgingly.

"Mrs. Gleason is having a clay beauty mask, sir. If she talks she'll crack it."

"I'm sorry to interrupt at such a time, Cecile," Ken's voice was tight, "but it seems impossible to get a word with you at any other hour and I must speak with you. In private."

With immobile face but blazing eyes Cecile parted her lips long enough to say furiously:

"You'll have to wait. This must not be disturbed for an hour."

"An hour will be too late for my purpose," Ken replied firmly. "I've tried to see you all day. I must ask you to manage this."

A cry of warning from the maid. "Don't forget, Mrs. Gleason!"

At any other time it would have tickled Ken's quick sense of humor to watch Cecile trying to be angry with a serene face. She struggled up, wound in the sheet and waved the maid away.

"Oh, all right! Go on out, Alma. I'll ring when I want you."

The woman went, resentment showing in every line of her broad back.

"Now," said Cecile when they were alone, "perhaps you'll explain the reason for this intrusion!"

Ken raised his brows.

"Rather a strong word, isn't it? Intruded—as you call it—because you make it impossible for me to see you at any other time. One would think you deliberately tried to avoid me, Cecile. And I had to see you. I just learned that you invited Cyril Underhill to our dinner party tonight."

"Well?"

"You know I dislike the fellow."

"In my future life to be guided by your likes and dislikes?"

"That's not fair! It isn't that I want to force my private tastes on you. But you know how I dislike that fellow. A male gossip . . . a charlatan. . . ."

"That is your opinion. Others receive him. He was at Coralie Gaines' party last week."

Ken's face darkened. "You've only made his case worse in my eyes. Other people whom we know—and value— Look, Mary Eastwood never invites him. You never see him at the Forsythe's—"

Cecile forgot the injunction of her maid and the green clay split in a thousand cracks as she scowled.

"Those wash-outs! Do you think I care who they invite? Cyril wouldn't go to their dull parties anyway."

Ken struggled to keep his temper.

"I'm asking you, Cecile—put it as a favor, if you wish, to please don't invite this fellow to the house. I've heard some of his remarks about women and I don't intend my wife shall be gossiped about."

Cecile's smile was ghastly.

"Oh, you are giving orders?"

"An order to protect my wife and my home from a slanderer's tongue."

Again the white teeth flashed in the dark green mask.

"You are suddenly solicitous about your wife," she said softly, "and the time is long overdue in her voice. "Perhaps if you worried more about your own reputation it would be more to the point."

He regarded her with narrowed eyes.

"What are you driving at?"

"You know." Still in the soft tone. "But I am not surprised to know that it startles you to learn that I do as well! Well . . . we understand each other, Ken. I'll speak even more clearly. I'll allow you so much leeway"—she held her long white hands a short space apart. "So-o-o much, Ken." She nodded her head, "That is all. Therefore, you can see, as far as Cyril is concerned—he comes to the dinner tonight. And you will be pleasant to him."

The man's eyes were blazing.

"I don't know what you're talking about. And if that fellow comes here—"

"Please!" She held up one hand in affected weariness. "Don't shout. There is no need of taking the servants into the argument." Then, with a sudden furious change, her eyes glared and her teeth were bared. You'll do as I say, do you hear? If you don't you'll be sorry! You'll—you'll—" She hesitated, as a loss to vent her spleen. "Look here," she went on in a low furious voice, "as long as you can go sneaking off to visit your shop girl, I'll invite whom I please—"

Amazement in his glance. "Why . . . what are you talking about?"

"I know you! The sheet snapped at her heels as she ran over to the dresser. She flung back the lid of a jewel case. Picked up something between thumb and forefinger; held it out to him.

"There! Didn't know I held the ace, did you?"

She put the tiny object on her palm. A small flower, made of seed pearls.

"The baby's nurse found this in his hand one Sunday after you had taken him out. . . calling on your shopgirl! I recognized it at once! I remember the day Jeanette . . . that chain for the shop. It was imported, the only one of its kind. Now, what have you to say?"

Her eyes were half-closed in triumph as she faced him, so that they looked like pale slits in a mask of jade.

Ken's face had gone bleak.

"Just this—no matter what you may choose to think, that meeting was entirely harmless, no fault lies anywhere, it is with me. I was weak enough to see her. But you mustn't blame her—"

Cecile's lip curled. "Blame her! I don't even consider her! But—I think this makes us quits!"

The man's mouth tightened "No. It doesn't enter into the case. I am making no pact with you, Cecile. I repeat the request I came in here to make. I do not wish Cyril Underhill received in this house. I have asked you to do me the consideration—"

"And I—" Cecile said through her teeth, "have decided that he shall come here whenever I wish! If you make a scene I'll drag in your shopgirl—"

"Leave her out!"

"She ever been out?" asked Cecile with false sweetness. "Do you think I'm a fool? Know she was trying to get you And I'll tell you something further and you can pass it to her You're mine! She can't ever get anything of mine away from me! Her little game will do her no good! I'll never give you a divorce. Tell her that for me!"

To Be Continued Monday.

'Lost Cause' Leader of Austria Is Dead

Vienna, April 26 (AP)—Count Adelbert Sternberg, Austria's champion of lost causes, died today of heart disease at the age of 62. In his life Count Sternberg always was on the side of the weakest, and fought in countless writings against political corruption.

He hated his fellow aristocrats, civilian and military, and even insulted the Emperor Franz Joseph.
